To Cyprus Problem

Search For Last Minute Solution

LONDON (AP) — U. S. and British diplomats searched for a last - minute solution to the Cyprus problem Saturday night as the return of Turkish warships to their bases brought a slight easing of tension.

Then, as the talks were going on here, Britain requested an urgent meeting of the U. N. Security Council in New York to resolve what it called "a dangerous situation" on the eastern Mediterranean island. Britain appeared to be beating Greek Cypriots to the punch in this move. The Cypriots were reported ready to seek a Security Council meeting over the weekend.

Britain said it wanted the Security Council to consider "urgent problems raised by the deterioration of security" on Cyprus where fighting erupted anew Saturday.

U. S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball flew to London from talks with Cyprus President Makarios and Greek and Turkish government chiefs. He hurried to meet with Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler, Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys and other British leaders.

The Foreign Office talks lasted for more than two hours, then broke up for supper. Leaving the building, Ball told newsmen: "We have had some very useful talks. I cannot say more."

Ball's peace mission has taken him to Greece, Turkey and Cyprus itself, where President Makarios rejected an international force free of U. N. control to keep the warring factions apart.

But the week-long trip may have been at least partially successful, since the troop-loaded Turkish warships maneuvering off Cyprus shores returned to Turkish ports Saturday night.

The troop movement had raised fears that Turkey was about to invade the embattled island—as she had threatened—to protect the lives of the Turkish Cypriot minority, outnumbered by Greek Cypriots 4-1.

Even though a Turkish government spokesman had said the 17-unit naval task force was only on maneuvers, Greece was reported to have alerted its own troops and informed sources said the British government was weighing possible counteraction in event of intervention on its former colony.

There were reports that the Turkish government planned to intervene should Allied efforts fail to land an international peace force on Cyprus but that Turkey decided Friday night to delay action 48 hours, at Ball's request.

In Ankara, where the situation appeared calm as Turkey began a three-day religious holiday, government officials declined comment on the reports that Turkey was on the verge of the intervention move it threatened soon after the current crisis on Cyprus erupted in December.

POLICE MASCOT FOR A WHILE — Patrolman Robert Vogler holds a large white rabbit named Pedro which spent a night and a day in police headquarters. The bunny was claimed Friday by Ora Hanrahan, 1613 South Grand, and has been returned to his proper home. Frank Fillicetti, 1801 South Harrison, called police Thursday night after his collie dog had carried the bunny home—without harming it. Vogler answered the call and seeing that the rabbit was completely tame, brought it to the police station to await claim by the owner. The bunny took over one corner in the station and seemed to enjoy the varied food ration offered by police. (Democrat-Capital photo)

Rusk Says Goods May Be Boycotted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Saturday some American consumers might decide to boycott goods of British firms selling to Cuba although the U.S. government plans to foster no such retaliation.

Rusk spoke on the touchy boycott question while the administration weighed a congressional directive to cut off U.S. aid to nations whose ships or planes go to Cuba. Informants said an announcement may come early this week.

The U.S. government has avoided boycott as a weapon to force allies to assist in the American efforts to weaken Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime through reducing Western trade with Cuba.

Boycotts of foreign goods in this country could set off boycotts of U.S. products abroad. Inthe case of Britain, America exported about a billion dollars in 1962 and imported a like amount. This two-way total of $2 billion is far more than the $27 million Anglo-Cuban trade total that year.

Rusk spoke in a Voice of America radio interview recorded Friday following the two-day visit of British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home. Britain's policy of trading with the Reds stood out as the major difference in otherwise harmonious talks between Douglas-Home and President Johnson.

Asked whether "anything specific in the way of popular reaction against British goods for their shipping of buses to Cuba" is planned, Rusk replied:

"We don't ourselves plan to organize any boycott against the goods of countries that may be engaged in that trade.

"I think it is possible there may be some consumer reaction here in this country, here and there with respect to firms that specifically engage in that trade.

"But that's something that is in th hands of private citizens; we have no part in that ourselves."

Rusk mentioned no specific company by name. One of the British firms mentioned in current news dispatches is Leyland, which is selling at least 400 busses to Cuba. Another is Aveling Bargord, said to be negotiating a $1.4-million sale of road building equipment.

Medical Staff Behind Polio Vaccine Plan

The county-wide oral polio immunization program set for kick-off on Sunday, March 1, has been given the unanimous endorsement of the medical staff of Bothwell Hospital.

In a letter to Jery Kling, director of the program for the sponsoring Sedalia Jaycees, the staff said:

"This is to inform you that on Jan. 7 the medical staff of the Bothwell Memorial Hospital unanimously approved your proposed countywide oral polio immunization program.

"Your interest in this public health problem is commendable in as much as proper immunization against this dreaded disease can greatly lower its incidence and practically speaking, eliminate epidemics such as we have seen in the past.

"Best wishes for a successful program."

The letter was signed by Dr. Holmes O. Wilbur, staff secretary.

Immunization clinics are to be set up in Sedalia schools and the vaccine is administered by depositing two drops of the tasteless liquid on to a cube of sugar which is taken orally. Incubation ocurs in the intestinal tract and the body produces antibodies which will ward off polio virus.

The program has ben dubbed "SOS," or "Sabin on Sundays," after Dr. Sabin—the oral vaccine's inventor. Clinics are to be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and followups in the three dose series are set for April 5 and May 3. Donations of 25 cents per dose to defray expenses are sought, but the Jaycees emphasize no persons will be turned away from the clinics.

Director Kling said a large force of volunteer assistance will be needed to staff the clinics and asked able to give their time to telephone state Jaycee headquarters, TA 7-0202, and leave names and addresses. Kling's staff will contact each volunteer and co-ordinate work schedules.

"Nurses who wish to volunteer for the 'Sabin on Sunday' clinic duty on March 1 have been asked to call Mrs. Bettye Murrell, director of nursing for the Sedalia public school system," Kling said. "She can be reached at TA 6-1115."

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A 71-year-old man was struck by a car and killed Saturday as he was talking with another man about a minor automobile accident.

James Rufus King of St. Louis was sstanding on U.S. 66 when he was struck by a car driven by Ralph Roy Dunlap, 25, of St. Louis, the highway patrol said.

Candidate For New Board Files

The first candidate for a position on the new County Board of Education filed his intentions this week with C. F. Scotten, county superintendent of schools.

Marvin Mallory, Route 4, filed for one position from the county's western district. He is from Prairie township and currently is a member of the Quisenberry School Board.

Under the provisions of new state legislation, Pettis County will on April 7 abolish the old county school board and elect a new one by a new method.

The six-man board will be comprised of three representatives from the county's western district and three from the eastern district. In the balloting the three candidates receiving the most votes in each district will win the seats. The top vote-getter in each district will serve a three year term, the second high candidate serves two years and the third will hold office one year.

County Superintendent Scotten pointed out candidates must file for office 30 days before the election on April 7.

With the new popular method of electing county school board members, Sedalians will be voting on both county and city school board directors in the city election.

Hoffa Freed On One Jury Charge

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Teamsters Union President James R. Hoffa was freed of one jury-tampering charge Saturday, but was directed to begin his defense against three other counts Monday.

U. S. District Court Judge Frank Wilson, acting at the government's request, entered a directed verdict of acquittal to a charge that one juror in Hoffa's 12 conspiracy trial at Nashville was offered $10,000 to vote to acquit him then.

Chief prosecutor, James R. Neal had requested the verdict after the government rested Friday. He said the court's rulings had prevented the prosecution's proving the alleged offer to Nashville insurance man James C. Tippens.

Wilson agreed, saying evidence of Hoffa's connection with the alleged incident was insufficient to warrant submitting it to the jury.

However, he overruled defense motions for directed verdicts of acquittal for Hoffa and his five codefendants on the remaining three counts.

Hoffa is expected to testify later in the trial, but a defense spokesman said Nicholas J. Tweel, Huntington, W. Va., businessman, would be the first defense witness.

Tweel and Allen Dorfman, Chicago insurance broker, are accused of trying to improperly influence jurors through Dallas Hall, Nashville tavern operator.

The other defendants are Larry Campbell, Detroit Teamsters business agent, and his uncle, Thomas E. Parks, Nashville, and Ewing King, former Nashville Teamsters president.

The government charged that the offer to Tippens was made with Hoffa's blessing by Lawrence W. Medlin, a Nashville sandwich maker. Medlin was indicted with Hoffa, but secured a separate trial later at Nashville. As a result, Wilson sharply restricted the testimony Tippens could give as to Medlin's alleged offer.

Greeks To Elect New Parliament

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Greeks elect a new Parliament Sunday under clouds of the Cyprus crisis.

"Elections under threat of war," said a headline in one of Athens' leading afternoon newspapers. Another paper reported: "Fears of a Turkish invasion in Cyprus."

The general public appeared unruffled. Greeks bought newspapers with the scare headlines, then went back to street corner arguments that centered largely on one question:

Will any single part win an absolute majority in the 300-seat, one-house Parliament and be able to name a stable government?

A general election last Nov. 3 failed to give any party control, leading King Paul I to call for new balloting. The major parties are:

The Center Union, headed by George Papandreou, 76, twice a premier.

The rightist National Radical Union, headed by Panayotis Kanellopoulos, 61, also a veteran politician.

The United Democrat Left, a Moscow-line successor to the outlawed Communist party. Its leader is John Passalides, 79, a physician born in Moscow.

About five million Greeks are eligible to vote. The polls will close at sunset. Definite returns should be available by noon Monday.

In the last election the Center Union won 138 seats; the Radical Union 132; the United Democratic Left 28; and the small Progressive party two.

Car Strikes Pole

HARRISONVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Darles Junior Warren, 26, of Passaic, Mo., was killed and his wife and 3-year-old son, Christopher Jay, were critically injured Saturday when their car struck a telephone pole.

The accident was in Bates County on U.S. 71 near Passaic.

Another son, two-year-old Dusty, suffered minor cuts and bruises.

It Isn't True

Sometimes It Seems That Government Reproduces

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—It isn't really true that government reproduces itself, but sometimes it seems that way.

This tendency is especially noticeable if you take a look at the fantastic growth in recent years of the many kinds of printing and duplicating devices in state agencies.

The fancy word for it is proliferation. But it's probably just natural growth, plus new methods, plus duplication of effort plus an apparent lack of control over the whole process.

Some state agencies print their own forms, their own regulations and reports, their own "news letters" about goings on in the departments and so on. Some have offset presses. Some are flossy two-color jobs.

And everywhere you see the electronic duplicating device which makes quick copies and eliminate the old, carbon copy-typewriter system.

At the same time, with the growth of do-it-yourself printing and duplicating in the state state agencies, there has been a marked increase in the cost of outside printing, contracted with commercial agencies.

No one knows the total amount of money spent for state printing, counting all methods. But Royal O. Cooper, acting state purchasing agent, has a figure on the cost of contract printing for comparable periods.

In the seven months from July 1, 1961, through Jan. 31, 1962, the state agencies which buy through the purchasing agent spent $680,966. For the comparable period from last July 1 to Jan. 31, 1964, the cost was $818,074.

Going at the problem another way, the budget staff made a study during the 1961 legislative session showing the estimated printing costs for state agencies in the 1959-61 biennium was $1,768,354. That compared with requests of $1,763,745 for the 1961-63 biennium but the later figures did not include any estimate of legislative printing costs, which would have boosted the total well over $2 million.

None of the figures include the huge printing costs of the University of Missouri.

And no figures exist for the do-it-yourself equipment and operating costs.

Central Committee Puts End To Meet

Time To Switch To Better Ways

Many Improvements In Past Ten Years For Agriculture

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party's Central Committee ended a marathon plenary meeting Saturday by officially calling a halt to Premier Khrushchev's 10-year effort to increase farm production by expanding farmlands.

A resolution, adopted at the windup session of the six-day meeting, said the time had come to switch to modern intensive farming metjods.

Paying tribute to Khrushchev's direction of farm policy, the resolution said that "In the last 10 years, much has been done for the advance of Soviet agriculture."

It called the Soviet leader's scheme for plowing up millions of acres of arid virgin lands of Kazakhstan "an exceptionally important contribution to the progress of all branches of agriculture."

The document, published in the Soviet government paper Izvestia, called on agricultural workers to double and treble farm output in the next few years "in order to have enough foodstuffs for the country."

The Central Committee, the party's top governing body, issued a 19-point list of recommendations for improving lagging agricultural methods.

Most of the points simply ordered local officials to correct shortcomings exposed at the plenum by various speakers.

The resolution also ordered a "get tough" drive to force agricultural specialists out of the cities and into farm areas.

It directed educational authorities to take steps to transfer all farm specialists schools and research facilities to state farms where students and professors would be forced to engage in practical work.

The plenary meeting in the great Kremlin palace was attended by about 66,0000 persons, mostly invited farm specialists and administrators from all over the country.

National Air Lines Closed By A Strike

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—National Air Lines shut down Saturday in a strike of clerical workers.

The company, which serves 40 cities, announced it was willing to comply with an appeal by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz to resume bargaining and service.

The striking Air Line Employes Association — ALEA—could not be reached for reaction to Wirtz' request, which offered a mediator's services and suggested arbitration in event resumed negotiation failed to resolve wage and day-night differential disputes.

About 1,800 NAL members of ALEA, which is affiliated with the Air Line Pilots Association, AFL-CIO, walked out a minute after midnight Saturday.

National had planned to continue operating but decided not to do so after other unions representing company employes pledged support to the ALEA.

Wirtz proposed that strikers return, that NAL resume service, and that talks be resumed with mediation assistance.

NAL and ALEA had been negotiating since last April, when their contract expired. All of more than 70 bargaining points had been settled except for base pay scales and differentials.

The union sought a $60 raise over three years on base pay ranging from $222 to $480 a month. The company offered $36 to $51 raises.

Eastern Air Lines and Northeast Air Lines began handling overflow passengers from NAL's idled flights.

Truce To Halt Border Warfare

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—A truce is to halt border warfare between Ethiopia and Somalia at noon Sunda, under an agreement announced Saturday.

A telegraphic exchange between President Ibrahim Abboud of Sudan and Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia provided for the cease-fire in eight-day - old hostilities that have aroused international concern.

Ministers of the Organization of African Unity, meeting in emergency session at Dar es Salaam, Tanganyika, had called for both sides to end the shooting. They urged peace also in a similar frontier dispute between Somalia and Kenya.

Acting as middleman, Abboud notified Selassie that Premier Abdirashid Ali Shermarke's Somali government accepted the Sunday truce and agreed also to end its propaganda attacks on Ethiopia.

"In the name of African unity and in a keen desire to save African lives, I appeal to your majesty to give a favorable response," said Abboud, himself an army general.

Selassie replied that his troops have been under orders for several days to shoot only if they were shot at and "we shall continue to exercise the utmost restraint."

The agreement came as Ethiopian demonstrators, urged on by government propagandists, marched through towns and villages throughout the empire demanding war. They carried banners declaring "We will march to Mogadishu," the Somali capital.

Both sides had hailed a peace plea last weekend by U. N. Secretary-General U Thant and Somalia announced Tuesday it was ordering its own troops to quit shooting. But the fighting continued.

Mrs. Barnes and her 6-year-old son, Rickie, were riding with Herbert Leroy King, 27, of Newburg, Mo. Rickie Barnes suffered a skull fracture and lacerations, King a leg fracture and lacerations.

The Highway Patrol said one of the cars skidded on wet pavement into the path of the other on a straight, level stretch of new road.

Brilliant Career Ended

Crash Kills Cubs Player In Utah

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Ken Hubbs, 22, star second baseman for the Chicago Cubs, and a friend were found dead Saturday in the wreckage of a light plane that crashed on a frozen lake near Provo.

The death of the fielding great ended a bright career highlighted by his selection as the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1962.

Hubbs and his companion, Dennis Doyle, 23, left his north-central Utah town in Hubbs' single-engine plane Thursday morning for hteir homes in Colton, Calif.

They got only about five miles.

The wreckage of the aircraft was sighted on the ice of Utah Lake, just south of Provo, late Saturday morning by Harlon Bement, state aeronautics director.

Bement was directing the Utah phase of a three - state aerial search that began Friday evening when Hubb's father reported the plane had failed to arrive in Colton.

"The plane was pretty badly broken up," said Lynn Christopherson of Provo, a search pilot who flew over the site. "Some of it was scattered on the ice and some went through the ice.

"It looked like it came down pretty hard. The wreckage was scattered for more than 50 yards. It was a couple of hundred yards off the island."

Christopherson referred to tiny Bird Island, five miles south of the Provo airport and about 50 miles south of Salt Lake City.

Hubbs and Doyle were flying home after participating in a basketball tournament at Provo sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter - day Saints—Mormon.

The search was resumed Saturday in Utah, Nevada and California at dawn for the plane, which Hubbs bought last year. He obtained his pilot's license only two weeks ago.

Weather was poor and visibility low when the two left Provo.

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: My father is constantly urging me to accept dates with his boss' son. Chauncy digs me but he is a creep.

In the first place, Chauncy doesn't dance and has no desire to learn. He thinks my friends are wierdies and I think his friends are stuck-up and boring.

Every time I light a cigarette Chauncy gives me a lecture on lung cancer. If I order French fries he goes on and on about fried food and stomach trouble. My idea of fun is to get as far away as possible from the old museum pieces.

I'm 16 and mature enough to pick my own friends. Please say so in your column and get my father off my back.—SACRIFICIAL LAMB.

Dear Lamb: It's always a mistake for parents to try to play Cupid for their children. Some perfectly good romances are knocked right in the head because of parental sponsorship.

In this case it's especially unfortunate because if you had discovered Chauncy on your own you might have liked him—and perhaps even learned something in the bargain.

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do about a husband who expects perfection in all our friends? Last night I counted 20 couples with whom we were once on very good terms. We don't see these people anymore because my husband has picked them to pieces.

The longest we've been able to maintain a friendship is about two years. After that the woman's laugh becomes irritating, or the husband brags too much, or he cheats at cards or his wife wears too much eye make-up.

Last night it happened again. After Mr. and Mrs. X left, my husband said, "Well, that's enough of THEM. Can you imagine anybody in his right mind supporting Scranton for President? Don't invite them here again and don't accept any invitations to their place."

Please tell me what to do.—RUNNING OUT OF FRIENDS.

Dear Running: I checked your envelope and am happy you live in Minneapolis. At the rate your husband is going, you'll need to look in a different city for friends, and it's nice that St. Paul is close.

People who are severely critical of others are essentially displeased with themselves. When your husband thinks better of himself he will then have a better opinion of others.

Dear Ann Landers: My 24-year-old daughter was divorced in 1961. Since that time I have been taking care of her children while she works. The oldest is in the first grade and the youngest will be ready for kindergarten next fall.

I love my grandchildren very much but they wear me out and tie me down. I've been looking forward to the time when both children would be in school so I could take it easier.

Yesterday my daughter told me she was pregnant. The man is not able to marry her as he has a wife and family. I want her to go to a home for unwed mothers and put the baby up for adoption, but she wants to keep the child. When I told her I don't have the strength to raise another child, she called me a terrible mother and said I was letting her down when she needed me most.

Now I feel guilty. Please straighten around my thinking.—BIG DECISION.

Dear Decision: It's the same old story—"What have you done for me lately?"

Don't ASK your daughter—TELL her that you will not raise the child and let her know she has no choice. Your suggestion is by far the best for the child, the mother, and for you.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

But...Would CHRIST Call You A Christian?

There is an amazing difference of opinion today as to what constitutes a real Christian.

One man regards himself as a good Christian because he applies the Golden Rule to everyday living. Another professes to be a follower of Christ even though he believes only part of the Savior's teaching. And some who call themselves Christian even go so far as to reject His divinity.

Too many people, unfortunately, are setting up their own standards of Christian character and Christian living . . . forgetting that Christ Himself set these standards for us.

The result is that many sincere people are confused . . . and are deceiving themselves with a minimum, or "so-so" kind of Christian living.

The Catholic Church teaches that the mere belief in Christ is not enough. For if it were, why did Christ take the trouble to show us by precept and example how we should live? Nor can we regard His teachings as just a social doctrine . . . subject to our individual amendments . . . when He made it so plain that our very salvation depends on living as He prescribes, not as we choose.

If you want to find out how good a Christian you really are, read—and read again and again—Christ's Sermon on the Mount. And if you read only the introduction . . . including the Beatitudes . . . you should realize how far short of Christ's standards are the standards which men set for themselves.

Perhaps you may feel that the ideals voiced by the Savior nearly 2,000 years ago cannot be applied in our modern times. And possibly you will not understand the practical meaning of Christ's references to "the meek," or "the poor in spirit," or "they who hunger and thirst for justice." In that case, we are happy to help you—without cost or obligation.

We shall be glad to send you free on your request, an interesting pamphlet explaining the meaning of the words Christ used in the beginning of the Sermon on the Mount . . . and how you can apply them to achieve a fuller, richer Christian life. It will be sent immediately—and nobody will call on you. Write today for your free copy. Ask for Pamphlet No. MO-29.

Draft Examination Ordered For Youths In 18 Age Group

The Pettis County Selective Service Board has initiated plans to carry out President Johnson's program for rehabilitation of registrants who are not qualified for military service because of physical, mental or moral reasons.

All 18-year-olds eligible for the draft are to be examined under the program and questionaires have been sent to all Pettis County youths born in 1944 and January and February of 1945.

Those who do not return the forms by Wednesday will be classed as 1-A, according to the local draft board which meets on that date to select 22 men for the Pettis quota for March. Those selected will be in the 20-year-old bracket, however, to meet the March quota.

There were 53 called in the February quota for the county.

Shortly after the President announced on Jan. 5, 1964, that he was directing the System and the Department of Defense to conduct early examinations of new registrants, the System called on all local boards to proceed to classify men immediately after registration. The directive was distributed as Operations Bulletin No. 252, and was issued Jan. 10, 1964. It directed local boards to classify as soon as practicable after registration all new registrants beginning with those who register in January 1964. While many local boards now follow that procedure, the Operations Bulletin insures that all local boards will adopt early classification.

As soon as practicable, under the President's directive, all such new registrants who are out of school and otherwise available will receive the armed forces physical examination as a preliminary step in the program for the conservation of manpower.

The President's directive was based on the report of the President's Task Force on Manpower Conservation, appointed by the late President Kennedy last September 30. The Task Force was made up of the Secretaries of the Department of Labor, Department of Defense, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and the Director of Selective Service. The Task Force report, given to the President as the new year opened, was based on a three month study of the steps that might be taken to rehabilitate young men found unqualified for military service.

The President's Jan. 5, 1964, statement follows:

I am releasing today the report of the Task Force on Manpower Conservation, appointed by President Kennedy on Sept. 30, 1963. I regard with utmost concern the two principal findings of that report.

First, that one-third of the Nation's youth would, on examination, be found unqualified on the basis of standards set up for military service and

Second, that poverty is the principal reason why these young men fail to meet those physical and mental standards.

The findings of the Task Force are dramatic evidence that poverty is still with us, still exacting its price in spoiled lives and failed expectations. For entirely too many Americans the promise of American life is not being kept. In a nation as rich and productive as ours this is an intolerable situation.

I shall shortly present to the Congress a program designed to attack the roots of poverty in our cities and rural areas. I wish to see an America in which no young person, whatever the circumstances, shall reach the age of twenty-one without the health, education, and skills that will give him an opportunity to be an effective citizen and a self - supporting individual. This opportunity is too often denied to those who grow up in a background of poverty.

This war on poverty, however, will not be won overnight. And we are now faced with the problem of those young men—already out of school — who would fail to meet minimal health and mental achievement standards.

After reviewing the findings and recommendations of the Task Force report, I have determined to take the following actions:

First, I am directing the Secretary of Defense and the Director of the Selective Service System to proceed to conduct, as soon as possible, examination of all new registrants who are out of school and otherwise available for service.

The Universal Military Training and Service Act of 1951 provides that each selective service registrant be classified and examined "as soon as practicable following his registration." For those who are no longer in school or college, this can best be done while they are still eighteen. This will enable those who are qualified for military service to plan intelligently their future careers in this respect. It will enable those found unqualified to get to work promptly on the education, training, or health services which can be of benefit to them.

The examinations given to selective service registrants provide a unique opportunity to measure all young men by a single yardstick, so that both they and their communities can judge their performance, and improve it where necessary.

Until now we have not taken advantage of this opportunity. Of late only a limited number of selective service registrants have actually been examined, usually four to five years after registering, and, except for a few pilot projects, there have been no follow-up measures for those who fail to meet the standards. Rejectees, for example, have normally not even been told the nature of their disqualifying conditions.

I must emphasize that early examination will not mean early induction. There will be no change in the present practice of calling older registrants for actual induction into the Armed Forces before younger ones are called.

Second, I am directing the Secretaries of Labor and of Health, Education, and Welfare to proceed immediately to initiate a manpower conservation program designed to meet, so far as resources permit, the needs of young men who fail to meet the tests given to selective service registrants.

The regular Women of the Moose Chapter meeting was held Tuesday at the Moose Home. There were five new members installed; Hazel Grinstead, Mildred Rosta, Maxine Ellington, Emily Quann and Ada Sue Potter.

Polly Campbell, hospital chairman, introduced guest speaker Dr. Frank Murphy. Dr. Murphy gave in detail information on entering Shrine Hospital, Home Rehabiliation Center and Crippled Children Center. He explained Dr. A. J. There is no discrimination made as to race, creed, or nationality also they do not have to be Shrine members to be accepted. He said each Shrine member is assessed a nominal annual fee to keep up the operations of these institutions.

Dr. Murphy urged that they be notified should members find any child who needs care of this nature. He told of a couple individual cases where they were helped through this organization. He also spoke very highly of all institutions of this nature.

Refreshments were served by the chairman and her committee consisting of Louella Bradberry, Rachel Curry, Ruth Jonson, Betty Lemens, Dorothy Tempketon, Margaret Portis, Opal Young, Dorothy Carver, Gertrude Head and Gertrude Samuels.

A request came to the circle to supply bandages for a leper colony in Nigeria, Africa. These bandages may be made of bed sheets, or squares crocheted or knitted.

OBITUARIES

Mary Van Winkle (Excelsior Springs)

Mrs. Mary E. Van Winkle, 73, mother of Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle, of the State Highway Patrol, 1821 West Tenth, died at her home Saturday morning in Excelsior Springs, Mo. She had been in failing health for several years.

Mrs. Van Winkle was born, Nov. 7, 1890, in Caldwell County. She was married to C. M. Van Winkle, who survives, as do two sons, Sgt. troller and budget director, has recommended that the current state reorganization or "Little Hoover" Commission look into the printing problem thoroughly.

A decade ago the first Little Hoover study group recommended the creation of a central management agency to do joint housekeeping chores for many state agencies — record keeping, business machine operations and so on.

Trigg thinks a central printing unit might fit into such a system and might in the long run result in savings. But much research needs to be done first.

Some states, Kansas for example, have their own state printing plants.

The University of Missouri has its own printing plant, of course, as part of the school of journalism. And there is another unique state printing plant at the main penitentiary. It is small but modern and intended primarily to train inmates in the printing crafts.

What is the solution of the state printing problem for Missouri?

Maybe the Little Hoover Commission can come up with some answers when its staff starts full scale operations next week.

Two persons received minor injuries in a two-car collision at 3:41 p.m. Friday in the 2500 block on East Seventh.

Injured were John Kelley, 16, 706 East Tenth, and Velma Gean Keele, 14, 1405 South Madison. Kelley complained of a laceration to the forehead and Miss Keele received a whiplash injury to her neck.

The Ewing ambulance took the injured to Bothwell Hospital where they were tratd by Dr. A. J. Campbell and Dr. A. L. Walters and were later released.

Involved were a 1957 Dodge, driven east on Seventh by Richard Stage, 27, 1421 South Prospect, and a 1954 Chevrolet, driven east on Seventh by Eugene Riley Keele, 46, 1405 South Madison.

A 15-month-old baby is in satisfactory condition at the MU Medical Center, Columbia, after receiving third-degree burns over about 20 per cent of its body when he was struck by hot water Saturday morning.

James Richard Smith, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon Smith, 2003 West Main, was taken to Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance and received emergency treatment from Dr. B. L. Boatright. The baby was then transferred to the Medical Center in the Ewing ambulance, and was reported in satisfactory condition after receiving further treatment there.

Police received a call from 1901 West Main, about 11:45 a.m., concerning the incident. The baby's mother had rushed to that address to call for assistance since the Smith family reportedly has no telephone. It could not be determined who resides a tthe second address on West Main

On arrival police notified the ambulance, which took the baby to the hospital. Reports indicate the baby pulled the electric cord of a hot plate, standing on a cabinet and used to boil water, causing the plate and the water to fall on him. The burns were inflicted to his abdomen, back and legs, police reported.

No injuries resulted in a two-truck accident at 9:10 a.m. Saturday, one and seven-tenths miles south of Sedalia on Highway 65 at Flat Creek bridge.

Involved in the accident, according to Trooper Richard Joos who investigated, were a 1964 Ford dump truck, driven north by A. Z. Swope, 57, 310 West Tenth, and a 1952 International truck, also driven north by Ted Lee Janes, 30, Red Top, Mo.

According to Joos, the Ford truck, which is owned by the Missouri Highway Department, had a snow plow blade attached and was preparing to plow Flat Creek bridge. Joos said the Ford slowed considerably before going onto the bridge and the International, which had been following the truck for some distance failed to slow soon enough. When the International did slow, Janes cut to the left and was in collision with the right rear corner of the Ford, Joos reported.

No damage resulted to the Highway Department truck. Considerable damage resulted to the right front of the International.

No injuries resulted in a two-car accident at 10:10 a.m. Saturday at 908 West Broadway.

Involved were a 1964 Chevrolet, driven by Robert L. Toeben, 45, Jefferson City, and a 1962 Oldsmobile, driven by Mary Alice Timbers, 25, 1314 South Osage.

Minor damage resulted to both vehicles.

It is known, however, that 139 volunteers, including 118 secondary schoolteachers and 21 geologists, will complete their tours by July 1965.

Ghana was the first African nation to receive 50 volunteers at the end of August 1961.

Congress To Go To Work On Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress begins work this week on two more of President Johnson's key 1964 legislative proposals — an omnibus housing bill and a college student aid measure.

So far this year the legislators have devoted most of their time to the two top priority items on the administration's list—civil rights and a tax cut.

Some action is expected on these two this week. But both House and Senate will broaden out into new fields as the pace at the Capitol continues to be much faster than in last year's session.

Both branches largely marked time in the past week because of the traditional Lincoln birthday period during which Republicans fan out over the country to make speeches.

But congressional leaders are well pleased with the progress made so far in this national election year session.

They are driving for a wind-up by late August in time for Democrats to get to their national convention opening at Atlantic City, N.J., Aug. 24. Meeting that goal would mean that Congress would have to reconvene after recessing for the Republican convention starting July 13 at San Francisco.

The President, in submitting his housing message Jan. 27, laid stress on a new program of aid for suburban communities and assistance for low-

The bill also would continue and expand present programs including public housing and urban renewal. The measure already has drawn fire from some legislators as too broad and too expensive.

The Senate Education subcommittee will start hearing Thursday on a bill to provide scholarships, an expanded loan program and educational loan insurance for college undergraduates.

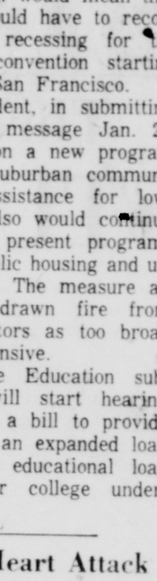
NO ONE IS Useless... in this world who lightens the burden of it to anyone else.
— DICKENS



To some, the life and work of a funeral director may appear to be an unhappy one. We do not share this feeling. We feel, rather, that ours is the opportunity to lighten the burden of those who have come to us in their time of need.

With complete respect for those bereaved, we quietly attend to the many necessary details so that minds already overburdened need not be further disturbed.

Leaders Are In Agreement To Pool Aid

PARIS (AP) —France and West Germany agreed Saturday to pool their economic aid to South America but remained at odds on policy toward the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

This emerged as President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, and a group of French and West German cabinet ministers, ended a two-day summit conference—one of a semiannual series under the French-West German cooperation treaty.

De Gaulle and Erhard, according to West German sources, agreed to join forces in sending economic, technical and cultural assistance to the nations of Latin America. The two countries would share costs, exchange information, and coordinate their investment programs.

West German officials emphasized in their talks with De Gaulle that the United States strongly desires joint French-West German activity for the benefit of Latin-American countries. As the Americans see it, this would provide a more effective supplement to the U. S. Alliance for Progress program in Latin America.

Both De Gaulle and West German President Heinrich Luebke are planning trips to Latin America later this year. De Gaulle is going to Mexico next month and to a number of South American countries next fall.

But De Gaulle apparently paid little heed to Erhard's effort breathe new life into NATO.

West Germany, which depends on a strong NATO for its military protection, fears that the French go-it-alone attitude is undermining the alliance. The Bonn Government is also concerned about a general slackness within NATO, and about various centrifugal tendencies exemplified in the Cyprus crisis.

A choir composed of Mrs. Rose Marie Cooper, Mrs. T. E. Gasperson, Mrs. Jack Gray, Mrs. Jack Herndon, Mrs. Don Lamm, Jr., Mrs. Ben Mahoney, Mrs. Hugo Reisel and Mrs. Robert Seelen sang "Lord, Who Throughout These Forty Days."

The much loved son of Malotte, "The Lord's Prayer," was sung by Mrs. Don Lamm, Jr.

In the rich tones of the violin Mrs. Cooper played the selection by Franck, "O Lord Most Holy."

Mrs. Jack Gray, soprano, sang "All in an April Evening" by Diack.

Mrs. Robert Seelen and Mrs. Jack Herndon, in a vocal duet, brought the message of "O Divine Redeemer" by Gounod.

In the closing number the choir sang "O For a Closer Walk With God" and Rev. Reifel gave the benediction.

Mrs. Berthouex and Mrs. Atkinson served as accompanists.

On Feb. 26 an artist program will be presented with Miss Sue Heckart serving as chairman.

Foresight vs. Hindsight

Continuation of a policy of buying real estate near Smith-Cotton High school is approved by action of the Sedalia Board of Education, 4 to 2.

There was some opposition to buying additional property adjoining that which is presently owned on South Lamine avenue, making available almost half of the block. This widens the unit for future use in plans to accommodate anticipated school growth.

Objections to the present purchase were based on the argument that the school system does not at this time have a real need for the property. Any businessman or industrialist who waits for the need to arise before he acts to cope with it, usually is a poor planner who pays through the nose for what he wants in the long run.

Contrary to comments that the present purchase would raise taxes, money for the Schlicting property will come from the building bond money remaining from the bond issue for school improvements.

At this juncture it may be well to clear up another matter that seems to have had circulation currently because of statements published to the effect that 76 per cent of all of the property taxes paid in Sedalia represents school taxes.

In refutation of this, we received a breakdown on taxes—city, state and county for 1963. The city tax which does not include any school tax is $1.50. The county and state taxes, which include the school tax, are $3.71. Of the $3.71 total for county, state and school, $2.82 represents the school tax.

Combining the city and state tax, the total rate for 1963 was $5.21. Accordingly, $2.82 represents 54.1 per cent of the total tax rate and not 76 per cent.

In conclusion now we predict a time will come when action of the Board of Education will be considered a wise one as property values in the Smith-Cotton neighborhood continue to rise. It's too bad the whole block wasn't acquired years ago when it could have been purchased for much less than the prices asked today.

However, as the old saying goes: "If our foresight were as good as our hindsight, we'd be better off a damn sight."

It appears the present Board of Education with adequate foresight doesn't need treatment for astigmatism as much as the hindsighters do.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

At the Farm Bureau board meeting in the Pettis County Extension office, chairmen for special committees were elected as follows: Legislation, George Fichter; Livestock, Frank Van Dyke; Credit, Thomas Rains; Service, Emmett Boltz; Organizations, G. D. Ferguson; Home and Community, Mrs. Paul Read.

—1939—

One thousand full grown game fish and 4,000 small game fish have been taken from Liberty Park lake by the Pettis County Conservation club and placed in Pettis county streams.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The old steam heating plant, property of the Sedalia Steam Heat company, located on East Broadway, east of the M-K-T tracks is being torn down by a wrecking crew under the supervision of Barney Bertman. The plant had been abandoned for some time since discontinuance of city heat.

Colleges: Attention!

A five-year-old kindergarten pupil in Minnesota has come up with what just may be the most significant scholastic development since colleges discovered the coed.

This young genius is astounding educators by being able to reel off any fact or figure about 300 big league baseball players.

How does he do it? By studying photo cards from packs of bubble gum!

The possibilities of this cultural breakthrough are staggering. If this kid can do it with baseball, what's to keep everybody from doing it with everything?

Think of an entire nation studying and learning and progressing from constant use of bubble gum photo cards—and, of course, from constant use of bubble gum.

Consider the intellectual satisfaction of a law student learning law from bubble cards on Lincoln and Gladstone; of a medical student studying a card on Dr. Schweitzer—and of a student of the dramatic arts earnestly poring over a card on, say, Miss Jayne Mansfield.

"Chews to Learn" is now more than a slogan. We are on our way to a better life, by gum.

Diversionary Items

Maybe you've been so preoccupied with the grim news from trouble spots around the world that you've overlooked such fascinating items as:

New York City has passed a law making it illegal to smoke in a hotel bed. (It's still legal to burn yourself up in your own bed at home.)

At least one major airline is now permitting passengers, including the ladies, to smoke pipes and cigars in the planes. (And cigarettes, too, of course.)

An educator says the naughty child is the creative child. (Makes being good sound pretty stupid, doesn't it?)

A survey shows that at least 5,000,000 Americans are playing guitars — and that most of them are amateurs. (That may be why it sounds like 10,000,000.)

Americans spent more than $550 million for dog and cat food in 1963—two and a half times as much as was spent for baby food. (Any comment?)

For the person who just has to brush after every meal, a thoughtful inventor has come up with a dental tablet that you pop in your mouth wherever you are, crush with your teeth, and then brush. (Of course, you have to run home for your toothbrush.)

Just wanted you to know. Now you can go back to worrying about things in Panama, the Congo, etc., etc., etc.

LBJ Hopping Mad at British Traders

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — An angry President Johnson has personally taken a hand in strong new protests to British Prime Minister Alec Douglas-Home over the British agreement to sell buses to Cuba.

A U.S. official close to the White House says "Lyndon Johnson was angry enough before, but since Castro shut off the water to Guantanamo, he's hopping mad. He's really worked up. He's going to make (the British) feel it. And he's the man who can do it."

But dressing down the British is one thing and keeping Britain, France, Spain and our other allies from selling to Fidel Castro is another. Despite a lagging agriculture and declining sugar output, high world sugar prices mean Castro is "rolling" in foreign exchange and can pay for what he wants.

Johnson has told Secretary of State Dean Rusk he must find some way to keep the West from selling Castro significant amounts of those things he needs to pin his limping economy together. High on the list: Oil refinery and other industrial production parts and equipment, railroad locomotives and freight cars, buses and trucks. The word is that Rusk is supposed to bear down especially hard on our European allies.

The State Department is finding this easier said than done.

U.S. diplomats had been trying to get the Latin-American states to band together in a strong protest against West European trade with Cuba. But by helping whip up the trouble in Panama, Castro likely has prevented any strong, concerted action.

If Spain sells key items to Cuba the United States can shut off aid to Spain. "But there's a catch," says one official. "Our bases in Spain are tied in with aid. If we abolish aid, what happens to our bases?"

During the past several months, government officials have looked into the possibility of breaking world sugar prices in an effort to cut Castro's foreign income. Private investors have been encouraged to grow sugar elsewhere, invest in sugar mills. The results have been unsatisfactory.

Now U.S. officials are looking up the relationships and subsidiaries of British, French and Spanish private firms that may be involved in any sales of key equipment or vehicles to Cuba.

These officials are attempting to learn if any of these firms or their subsidiaries have U.S. military or other U.S. government contracts, here or overseas, or if any of them sell appreciable amounts of their products in the United States.

Phone call by Newspaper Enterprise Assn. to the New York office of the Leyland-Triumph Sales Co., distributor of Triumph Cars in the United States, discloses that this company is owned by the Standard Triumph Motor Co., which in turn is owned outright by the Leyland Motors, Ltd., the British company which is selling buses to Cuba.

It is not certain what the U.S. government will do when this information on the private firms is collected. It is possible that the Defense Department and other U.S. government agencies could put such firms on a U.S. blacklist and exclude them from U.S. government business, here and overseas. But no decision has been made.

Officials don't know either what they can or will do about firms which have considerable private exports to the United States, but which don't sell to the U.S. government and don't plan to. They're collecting the information as a first step to . . .?

Baby's Sitting Pretty

By Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — I had a long, heavy, chenille robe that became worn around the neck and sleeves. I removed the buttons, cut off the top part of the robe just under the sleeves and hemmed the top. Now it is a cozy throw to use when napping, and is good to wrap around baby when going from house to car.

I keep a pair of stretchy bedroom slippers in the glove compartment of the car to slip on for traveling in real comfort.

My sewing basket always contains a few white socks with holes in them. A patch of stretchy sock top mends the underarm tears in nighties and allows freedom of movement. — M. A. L.

DEAR POLLY — When I take my small child to his grandparents' home for a meal, it is too much trouble to take along his chair. I just carry his car seat into grandma's house, cover the back of a straight chair with a turkish towel and then put the car seat on the chair. The child can sit at the table and see everybody and everything. — GAIL

DEAR POLLY — My wife is pleased with a basement clothes line that I fixed, using spring-type clothespins. The clothesline is a wire which I threaded through the coil springs in the pins. The clothes fall into my wife's hand or the basket by merely pinching the clothespins. — B. B.

DEAR POLLY — Pillowcases continually slipped off my son's Dacron pillows during the night. I put two gripper fasteners in the hem of each pillowcase. They are safer than pins. They won't open and tear the fabric or scratch my child.—MRS. R.P.

DEAR POLLY — After two or three dry cleanings, the white piping around the collar and down the overlapping front of my favorite gray suit turned yellow. I carefully applied white liquid shoe polish with the dauber that came in the bottle. It does not rub off and the piping is white and lovely looking. — MRS. J. D. S.

GIRLS — Again we remind you to first try this on an inconspicuous spot. It is also safer to protect the suit fabric with a piece of waxed paper as you daub on the polish. Even though such piping is machine stitched, it is often necessary to rip it off, wash and bleach, and then hand-sew it back on. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Many times my children have gone to a public gathering and returned home minus a wallet or change purse. I solved this by attaching a piece of half-inch elastic to the top and bottom of each wallet. Slipped over the hand and onto the wrist, it prevents loss. The elastic is hardly felt. I read the column every day and love the hints. — KATHY

DEAR POLLY — I have a good method for getting children to do a good dusting job. Hide buttons around areas of furniture they are most likely to skip, such as the legs of a table. If the little helper does not collect all the buttons, you will know spots have been missed. As an extra reward, hide a penny or two with the button. Let the child keep the pennies. —MRS. N. E.

The Magic of Snow

So shortly after I awoke
The first gray of the morning broke
Revealing trees that in the night
Had been transformed from black to white;
Breath-taking beauty to behold,
Majestic white that seemed not cold,
I looked upon the glorious scene,
So picturesque and so serene
Where moist flakes to the branches clung
Making the trees look fresh and young
Like lovely brides all in a row
In frilly dresses of lace snow;
Enchantment—this—that made me feel
Somehow this beauty was not real
But was a magic that prevails
In only lands of fairy tales —
A little later in the day
The sun seemed in a mood to play
And now and then enhanced the sight
By sifting through its beams of light
To put bright sequins on the lace
That added to the charm and grace
Of delicate and soft etched line
To leave a spider web design—
While through the air frost seemed to fly
Like diamond dust from out the sky —
"I took some pictures" said a man,
"But somehow pictures never can
"Quite catch the beauty that we see—"
I think God meant it thus to be,
Photographer—artist—or poet
Cannot do justice—and we know it—
What is created by God, divine,
Belittles efforts of yours and mine,
And now and then he lets us know
By putting on a nature show —
To teach us that success or whim
Are only gifts that are from Him.

FINDING THE WAY

Look Up---Seek Beauty

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A recent visit to the Cloisters in New York renewed remembrance of the glories of medieval art. Here men have gathered together some of the choice reminiscences of another time, another age. Originally built to be the home of monks or the gathering place for peoples, these rooms are now viewed for their artistic worth. The elaborate wood carving, the precise tapestries and the ornate embellishments remind the viewer that this was not an age of the assembly line. It was a time of the individual craftsman.

We can't go back to that age nor would we desire to do so, but one wonders about our own so functional style. We have become so austere that any of our design begins to look artificial.

There is point to the comment of Norman Birnbaum: "The typical American today is, in fact, a Calvinist with neither fear of hell nor hope of heaven."

That's a false generalization, but the bite is there.

And if some wealthy man gathered remembrances of our age, what shiny gadget or shining, brittle thing would tell of what we really are?

The view of another age is at least the urge to look at today with imagination. It was a joy to discover a painting by Charles Burchfield, luminous in its cool, gray beauty and lofty lines—a winter scene entitled, "Winter on Linwood Avenue." This is my street and this is our wintertime and I could have missed this wonder.

We need to restudy our concepts of heaven and hell, our understanding of the meaning and destiny of man, our fundamental concepts of what we call our values?

These are more than little embellishments. They are the facts which give reason to the embellishment of life.

They state the case for thoughtfulness, they give substance to courtesy, they give meaning to action, they give joy to existence. They proclaim the courtesy of God, that love which outstrips that which we too cheaply typify as sentiment.

It is good to discover that men in some ages have thought that a door was more than a door, and so made it beautiful. Today I'm content with the efficiency of the door, but there is a yearning for some reason for the efficiency, some meaning beyond the efficiency, and some function for the maddening race.

"When you see these things," said Jesus, "look up." Just now we need to do that looking-up.

The Doctor Says

Careless Diet Tends To Lead to Heart Attacks

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Careless dietary habits may be just one culprit causing hardening of the arteries and heart disease. But it should not be neglected.

Heart specialists now recommend skim milk, buttermilk and cottage cheese in preference to sweet cream, sour cream, ice cream, whipped cream, cream cheese and butter.

They recommend red meat, fowl, fish and other seafoods if the fat is trimmed off. Gravies, soups and stews should be placed in refrigerator overnight so that the hardened fat can be easily removed. Use vegetable oils for cooking and for braising meats rather than lard, drippings and suet. Eat eggs in moderation — preferably not more than one a day.

Green vegetables, corn, peas and beans are recommended. For dessert, fruits. To be consumed sparingly are margarine, potatoes, rice, spaghetti, bread, cereals, cake, pastries, cookies, pies, candy, jellies, jams, honey and alcoholic beverages.

For those persons whose blood cholesterol and triglyceride levels are already high, many drug have been used. Niacin can reduce the cholesterol level. Several other drugs have been found that will accomplish this purpose, but they are still regarded as experimental. Thyroxine and sex hormones have also been used with some success but the dose of these drugs must be carefully regulated.

Now that we know more about what causes arteriosclerosis, we have a much better conception of how to go about preventing it.

Q — You recently said that Cafergot for migraine headaches should not be taken by pregnant women. If a woman were taking this drug and didn't know that she was pregnant, in what way would it affect the baby?

A — If she didn't know she was pregnant it wouldn't matter. Cafergot contains ergot which causes uterine contractions and might precipitate a premature delivery in a woman whose pregnancy was well along.

Q — Is there any danger of permanent harm from ultrasound treatments taken once a week?

A — The effects of ultra-sound are chiefly due to the heat induced. This form of treatment has certain advantages when heat is desired in some joints that cannot be readily penetrated by means of external heat or diathermy. It should be given only under the direct supervision of a doctor specially trained in its use.

Treasurer of Democrat

Dear Heads Press Club

New president of the National Press Club in Washington, D.C., is J. A. Dear, treasurer of the Sedalia Democrat Co., who at 41 is one of the youngest presidents of the press club in recent years.

He was sworn into office by Chief Justice Earl Warren at a Press Club ceremony attended by his mother, Mrs. Cyrene Dear, three brothers, David, of Elizabeth City, N.C., Ralph, Wheaton, Ill., Walter, of Henderson, Ky., all newspaper publishers, and their wives. K. U. Love, president of the Sedalia Democrat, and Mrs. Love, also attended the ceremony.

The new president of the Press Club comes from a long line of newspaper men. The Jersey City (N.J.) Journal was founded by his grandfather, Joseph Albert Dear, and published at one time by his late father, J. Albert Dear, who before his death was a frequent Sedalia visitor.

J. A. Dear

Mr. Dear is president of Dear Publication and Radio, Inc., Washington, D.C., whose interests embrace the following daily newspapers: the Elizabeth City (N.C.) Daily Advance, the Henderson (Ky.) Gleaner and Journal, the Wheaton (Ill.) Daily Journal, and the Sedalia (Mo.) Democrat-Capital.

Mr. Dear's home is in Bethesda, Maryland. He is married and the father of two sons, Joe, 12, and Chip, 7.

What They Say In Letters to Editor

MRS. R. G. FRANKLIN (Rural Route 2, Sedalia) — I am a grandmother, my father was a Republican, I have always voted the Democrat ticket, but I think this has nothing to do with the things you said in your editorial in the Feb. 9th Democrat.

I think Senator Goldwater's statements do sound like political talk, else why didn't we hear these brave words before the Cuban trouble was 'dumped' into President Kennedy's lap a few days before he took office?

In his words you quote in your editorial, he says "I think I can promise President Johnson the backing of the American people if we don't take this one lying down."

So what? The American people generally back their president.

The American people seem to be at fault in the flag incident. Now, would it have been better to act like it wasn't our fault and start a war and at least have many boys killed? Our Home Extension club met today. We had a lesson on Citizenship and discussed these issues and came unanimously to the above conclusion.

Respectfully, (A mother of seven.)

MRS. WALTER McCLURE, JR. (Rural Route 5, Sedalia) — Regarding your editorial on the need for the United States to stiffen its spine in foreign policy, you said it — and well!

MRS. L. C. KENNON (1523 South Harrison) — I want you to know that I agree with everything you stated in your editorials. I am enclosing a copy of a letter we received from our son who is a teacher in the Canal Zone in which he tells what really happened down there. I am proud of the Sedalia Democrat for informing the people of Central Missouri of the danger that lies ahead for us if we continue a policy of appeasement.

Tigers Avenge Loss By Whipping Mexico

Bulldogs Fall, 65-51 In CMC Game

Smith-Cotton Now Has A 3-5 Record In Conference Play

By RONNIE COWAN

The Smith - Cotton Tigers came through to avenge the defeat handed them in January in the Central Missouri Conference by Mexico. The Tigers defeated the Mexico Bulldogs in their meeting on the Tiger court, 64-51, Friday night. They had lost their first conference meeting to Mexico there by a 41-43 score. The win Friday night gives the Tigers three victories in the conference against five losses.

The locals lost no time in the opening period by piling up a substantial lead, scoring slightly more than twice as many points as Mexico, 17 to 8. In the second quarter Mexico appeared on its way when they held the Tigers and outscored the locals in that period 13-9. However the Tigers held a five-point edge at intermission of 26 to 21.

The Bengals exploded in the fast breaks after stealing the ball from the Bulldogs several times. They tallied 20 points to the opposition 12. They came back in the final stanza to hit for 18 points while Mexico knotted the quarter scoring with 18.

Scoring honors for the Tigers were divided between Barry Wallace and Bruce Sparling who sparked the locals with their 17 points each. Carrying the scoring honors for the visitors were Duncan and Hayes, who both collected 12 points each.

Richard Cole, Tiger center, surpassed the 200 mark in rebounds by pulling in 11 to give him a season total of 203.

Mexico returned home partly satisfied as their "B" squad took the opening game of the evening by a 47-30 score over the Junior Bengals. Tom Hassler led Sedalia's scoring with eight points while Small and Pohlmeyer each collected 10 points for the Bulldogs.

Tuesday night the Clinton Cardinals come to town to meet the Tigers on the local court.

Friday's scores:

Smith-Cotton	17	9	20	18—64
Mexico	8	13	12	18—51

Individual scoring — Sedalia:: Sparling 4-9-17; Wallace 7-3-17; Chapman 4-4-12; Cole 3-1-7; Crawford 3-1-7; Young 1-0-2; Casey 1-0-2. Mexico: Duncan 5-2-12; Hayes 6-0-12; Staples 4-1-9; Bland 2-1-5; Roe 1-0-2; Miner 1-0-2; Jenkins 0-2-2; Jackson 1-0-2.

Sports Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

BASEBALL fans all say pro baseball is a sport, a sport they enjoy seeing, and shouldn't even be considered under anti-trust laws. It is a sport-business true, but not a "cold-blooded" business such as Charles O. Finley is trying to make it. Since Finley has got into his hassle with Kansas City over the stadium lease, and from his own actions, he has done more to injure the sport than any one individual in this century.

The wounds he has caused to the sport will take years to heal and little can he offer that will do much to make a sick team well. About the best thing he can do to help revive the Athletics is to stay in Illinois and forget he even knows what a baseball looks like and let his general manager, and team manager, handle the problems. The less he is seen around the stadium this coming year—the better. That's the opinion of many Athletic fans in this area.

When the hassle first began, Finley had the moral backing of the fans, but then as time rolled along and he kept changing his mind as to what kind of contract he wanted and after the Kansas City Council practically came down to his desires — he changed again. Faith in him broke down when he said the A's would be playing in Kansas City or a cow-pasture, if necessary, in the area, and in the same breath was calling for a plane ticket to Louisville, Ky., where he signed a contract to move there.

I personally feel he has lost all respect as a baseball club owner as far as the fans are concerned.

Although the deadline for Finley to get together with Kansas City came last midnight, it is most likely the American League owners will join together to see that the A's stay in Kansas City whether Finley likes it or not. The league is expected to meet Wednesday and that's when the final decision should come.

If Kansas City and the area had failed to support the A's that would be a different thing—but from what little information I have had, they have had some right gfood support from the performances the team has given.

—o—

PROVING the point Finley is in baseball as a "cold-blooded business deal" was his offer to sell the club for 7-million dollars to Alex J. Barket, of Kansas City last month. He only paid 3.9 million and spent a half million on the baseball stadium. Grant he has four and a half million in the club, he certainly is a little greedy over his profit and one can hardly blame him for trying.

But with the headaches he has no doubt had in recent weeks, and those he has given others, he should be happy to get out "even" maybe a buck or two profit.

If he should sell the club to Kansas interests, I would be willing to bet the Athletics' would zoom up in popularity, and in performance as well. The players would have some assurance they wouldn't get shaken up in the middle of the season with a brain storm from the owners: "Well it's time to talk moving."

But Saturday night President of the American League Joe Cronin assured the Associated Press no drastic actions were immediate on Finley regardless if he does or does not get together with Kansas City at the 11th hour. He indicated no statement would be forthcoming at midnight, and probably not before Monday.

REMEMBER a few weeks ago when I called attention to where some of the E-Tax money was going — an ice-palace. Well it isn't going into that but to a plan to use the Municipal Auditorium for an ice rink. It's a much better and cheaper idea though.

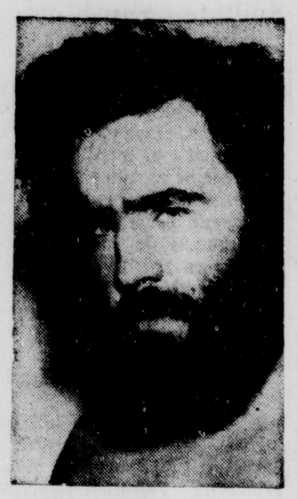
I noted that several days ago the Kansas City planners had indicated the large auditorium hall would be revamped as to the floor area with a new concrete floor, replacing the wooden block floor. In the concrete would be pipes which could be used to freeze the ice for the rink.

It was also pointed out a Ice Hockey franchinse was available to Kansas City, and this should be a help to produce interest in the ice rink and help to pay for the improvement. I recall the old Hawks which played at the Pla-More rink, and they faded from the Kansas City support in that type of sport. Maybe it could be revived—maybe not.

The estimated cost, I believe, was placed at $80,000 plus.

Anyway it was information I gave which wasn't mentioned during the E-Tax campaign.

The Great Dane



Joe Gump

In Twilight Of Career

Speculation On Henning's Regaining Championship

Bulldog Lee Henning's return to the Mid'and Empire wrestling scene prompts speculation the battling New Yorker will go all out to regain the Central States championship he once held.

Henning, a big, rough, 250-pounder, is in the twilight of a pro wrestling career that dates back almost 30 years. Over that span, he has wrestled virtually every top grappler to come along.

Aside from a few facial scars, the old warrior is none the worse for wear. By daily conditioning with a lead-weighted rope, Henning manages to stay in peak physical trim and his endurance continues to be a source of amazement.

The rugged Iowa-born belter will launch his campaign Tuesday night at Convention Hall, teaming with Sonny Myers to go against Joe Gump and the Great Dane.

Gump is regarded as one of the most unpredictable pros in the mat ranks and is always looking for the weak point in his opponent's armor. A brawler with good power, the bewhiskered Gump makes wide use of slugging, piledrivers, slams and other punishing devices.

The Dane is a blond-haired young warrior of good size who has been impressive in his first few starts in the Midlands. Fast and agile, he is considered Central States title timber.

Three other individual pairings will be on the program. Sailor Art Thomas, the giant Negro heavyweight, will battle Baron Von Strauss. Myers will take on Gump and Henning will wrestle the Dane.

Pintos Swamp Mustangs In Loop Meet

The California Pintos literally swamped the Eldon Mustangs, 73-53, in a Tri-County Conference contest Friday night on the Mustang's court.

California was in control throughout the contest. They grabbed a 12-point margin in the first period and added six points to it in the second quarter to give them a comfortable halftime edge.

Opening the second half, the Pintos continued their scoring ways. The Mustangs were finally able to capture California in the last stanza, but by this time their efforts were futile.

Larry Gerlach pushed 23 powerful points through the loop for the Pintos to take scoring honors for the game. John Parkins was high for Eldon with 20 points.

Eldon fared a little better in the B contest, as they were successful in downing California, 42-39. Donnie Vernon and Ronnie Witt shared high point honors for the Mustangs with nine points each. Ronnie Kappelman led the way for the Pintos with ten hits.

The Pintos will see action Tuesday, meeting the Tipton Cardinals in a non-conference battle at Tipton.

Score by quarters:

California	19	22	18	14—73
Eldon	7	15	13	18—53

Individual scoring: California — Larry Gerlach, 23; Gery Wells, 2; Mike Miller, 14; Jerry Wells, 11; James Kerns, 6; Mike Lawson, 17. Eldon — Norris Henley, 9; Vernon, 4; Richard Claxton, 7; Charles Taylor, 11; John Parkins, 20; Crigler, 2.

Games Are Cancelled

Due to inclement weather, the Bantam League soccer champions were forced to postpone their games in the National Khoury Soccer playoff tournament. The games were to have been Saturday and Sunday in St. Louis. The local team got as far as Columbia before turning back, when snow began to fall. The games have been rescheduled for Feb. 22-23.

Sacred Heart Wins Homecoming Game

Versailles Wins Last Home Game

In their last home game of the season, the Versailles Tigers provided a thrill for their local fans by whipping Iberia, 72-61, in a Tri-County Conference contest.

Versailles proved to be the better of the two teams in the first quarter scoring column as they bested Iberia by seven points. Both teams matched points in the second period to give the Tigers their seven points as an intermission lead.

Opening the second half, Iberia chopped four points off the Tigers' score, but not to be outdone by this act, Versailles literally mopped up the floor with Iberia in the final stanza.

Dale Tankersley led Versailles' scoring effort with 30 points. According to the game reporter, the Tigers could really use four more men like him, after looking at their season record which, incidentally, isn't being mentioned by the coach, his wife, and team. Atwill poured 21 points through the loop for Iberia.

In the B contest, the Tigers were again victorious over Iberia, 36-28. Williams sparked Versailles' scoring with 17 points. Roberton led the Iberia scoring attack with nine.

Versailles will meet Camdenton Friday in a Tri-County Conference contest at Camdenton.

Score by quarters:

Versailles	17	18	16	21—72

Individual scoring: Versailles —Forrest, 6; Morrison, 3; Tankersly, 30; Hutchison, 3; Dean Ekan, 15; Brown, 9; Richardson, 4; Lutjen, 2. Iberia—Hix, 6; Atwill, 21; Brown, 8; Shelton, 2; Jeffries, 4; Irvin, 20.

Hughesville Wildcats Are Trounced, 60-35

The Sacred Heart Gremlins gave their fans a thrill Friday night as they whipped the Hughesville Wildcats, 60-35, to win their homecoming game on the local court. The contest was a PBCAA conference battle.

The Gremlins pulled ahead of the Wildcats with a nine-point lead in the first quarter. During the second period Hughesville thundered back to hold Sacred Heart to 12 points during the quarter, and scored a like amount of baskets for themselves.

At the end of the second quarter the Gremlins still maintained their nine point lead after a hard fought battle to outscore the Wildcats in second quarter competition.

The momentary rest during half-time seemingly boosted Sacred Heart to an even greater peak of scoring capacity. During the third quarter the Gremlins scored two points more than the Wildcats. As the third period ended the Gremlins led the Wildcats by an 11-point lead.

As the Gremlins returned to the last stanza they outscored the Wildcats by a mighty six points, enough to more than win the contest.

Undoubtedly one of the greatest assets to the Gremlins was the powerful rebounding done by Dennis Gartner. He grabbed 20 balls off the backboards throughout the evening.

The Gremlin high point man was Chuck Hogan scoring six field goals and four free throws for 16 points. Raymond Brown lead Hughesville's scoring with 12 points on five field goals and two free throws.

During the intermission between the varsity game and the B game the Sacred Heart Homecoming Queen, Miss Cindy Becker, a freshman, was crowned by Varsity Captain Dennis Gartner, and she received a bouquet of flowers from Miss Ann Schwab, Mizpah president. Miss Kathy Gibson, head varsity cheerleader, led the fans and the B team cheerleaders in a cheer for Queen Cindy. Queen Cindy's attendants were Miss Martha Rudisill, senior, Sherry Shanahan, junior and Lorraine Jarvis, sophomore.

The queen and her attendants sat on the stage during the B game and watcher Sacred win their game over Hughesville 34-22. High point position was tied with Ron Kruse and Bill Herring scoring nine points for the Gremlins. The Wildcats high point man was Phillips also scoring nine points.

The Gremlins dropped their volleyball game to the Wildcats by a score of 30-12. Sacred Heart's high scoring girl was Kathy Gibson with four points. Hughesville's high scoring girls was L. Williams with a total of seven points.

Sacred Heart will play their last A and B basketball game of the season, Feb. 18, on the home court.

Score by quarters:

Sacred Heart	17	12	12	19—60
Hughesville	8	12	10	5—35

Individual scoring: Sacred Heart — Chuck Hogan, 16; Dennis Gartner, 11; Cecil Gerke, 10; Everett Koechner, 9; Harold Straka, 6; Bernie Bahner, 4; Ron Kruse, 3; Jim Downs, 2. Hughesville — R. Brown, 12; F. Kraft, 9; R. Wiley, 9; B. Wall, 5.

Shamrocks Get Seventh Loop Victory

The Houstonia Shamrocks collected their seventh LaSaline Conference victory by defeating Santa Fe's Indians 98-76 at Houstonia Friday night. The Shamrocks, with four conference losses against their record, collected their 98 points from five scorers.

Houstonia opened the game with a strong ten-point lead in the first quarter, and were still possessed with a strong lead at intermission, 50-39. The Indians showed up with a bit of rebelliousness in the third quarter, dropping in 25 points, but the Shamrocks put down the outburst by holding their visitors down to 12 in the final period.

The Shamrocks, holding a 15-10 season mark, were powered by the near record performance of David Shireman who dropped in a tremendous 38 points in the game. His effort was boosted by teammate Terry Pummill who dropped in an equally commendable 31. Top man for Santa Fe was J. Briston with 28.

The girls' basketball game saw Houstonia whip Santa Fe 59-43 on the 28 points contributed by Susanne Smiley, who was followed by Emma Hedgepeth with 26. High for the losers was C. Spotts with 22.

Next Tuesday, Houstonia will be host to Sweet Springs in a non-conference battle. This coming Monday also sees the Houstonia "B" team enter the Hughesville "B" team tournament, with games scheduled for Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Saturay. Eight teams are slated to see action.

Score by quarters:

Thirty-two teams will participate in the six-day NAIA Tournament, which will be held at Municipal Auditorium, March 9-14.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce office, which is located in the Hotel Continental handles all of the ticket sales and now will have secretaries accepting ticket orders on Saturday until 5 p.m., the same as during the week. When ordering by phone, call VIctor 2-2420.

In addition to the regular ticket sales, the special group plan for high schools, junior highs and church groups now is underway. LaMonte rallied during the second quarter and cut Lincoln's edge. As the period closed, the Vikings lead the Cardinals, 60-43.

The third stanza competition was keen with both teams scoring 20 points each. LaMonte could not get the edge on Lincoln and the period ended with the score 80-63. As fourth quarter action began the Vikings rallied and edged the quarter scoring by two points.

BULLETIN

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City Athletics, denied Saturday night that he had rejected a city offer of a compromised three - year contract for use of Municipal Stadium, only hours before the American League's lease-or-else deadline ran out.

The war of words broke out as the midnight deadline set by the American League closed in on Finley and Kansas City civic officials with no indication that there was hope of solving the impasse.

Orioles' Streak Is Broken Fri.

The Knob Noster Panthers broke the Concordia Oriole's 21-game winning streak Friday night as they slipped past the Orioles, 58-51, in overtime action. The game was a non-conference battle played at Knob Noster.

The Panthers grabbed a six-point edge in the first quarter, and both teams matched points in the second period, so the lead held at intermission.

The Orioles forged ahead in the third stanza and chopped off Knob Noster's lead. However the wily Panthers held back Concordia in the last period as they managed to tie up the score at the end of regulation play.

In overtime the Panthers pushed four points through the loop while Concordia only managed two.

Beerman led for Concordia with 21 points. High point honors for Knob Noster were taken by Hughes with 18.

In the B contest, Knob Noster again whipped Concordia, 69-35. Ficken pushed 17 points through the loop for the Panthers to take scoring honors. Mills was high for Concordia with eight.

The Panthers will play their last game of the season Friday night against Leeton at Knob Noster.

'64 Corvair Monza by Chevrolet

'64 Corvair Monza Club Coupe

It's got a frisky new engine
(that puts superior traction under you)

Ever see a Corvair wearing tire chains? Not likely.

And it's not often you'll find a Corvair owner bothering to switch over to snow tires either.

Why? Rear-engine traction. The engine weight over Corvair's rear wheels gives them remarkable gripping power without any assist from special winter driving paraphernalia.

Reassuring to know this time of year—and also in the months to come when all that tidy white countryside turns into a melting pot that's likely to add to the misery.

Another thing about Corvair's engine: It's bigger this year. Nearly 19 per cent more power in the standard version. Which is something you'll appreciate most any time of year, fair weather or foul.

You'll also appreciate not having to fool around with antifreeze. And not having to flush the radiator or fuss with hose connections. The engine's air cooled.

Matter of fact, we have a feeling that if more people knew what a cinch Corvair makes winter driving, there wouldn't be quite so many looking for excuses to duck South this time every year.

But then you never know. Corvair's a real kick to drive in warm weather, too. Why not just try one at your dealer's and decide for yourself? Whatever the weather, it's bound to be a fine day for it.

No Sad Songs For Durward; Future Set

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sing no sad songs for Durward Kirby, even if — as appears likely — "The Garry Moore Show" is now in its sixth and final season.

The tall—6 feet 4—blond Kentuckian who has backstopped Moore in the CBS variety show has shown a remarkable ability to remain profitably and happily employed since, as a Purdue undergraduate, he got a job as announcer on the college radio station.

Kirby's most remarkable demonstration of this ability was the premiere of his first New York radio program: 9 a.m. Jan. 1, 1946.

Somehow, both Kirby and his show survived, and by 1948 he had moved on to a television program of his own. His relation ship with Moore, however, goes back 23 years when both were bright young funny men on Ransom Sherman's popular "Club Matinee" radio program out of Chicago.

At the moment, Kirby's enormous versatility has rewarded him with two jobs. On the Moore show, he is the permanent second banana, occasional straight man, sketch actor, singer, dancer — simple steps — and somehow can switch instantly from slapstick to dignified salesman the sponsor's product.

He also serves as host and occasional participant in the filmed hijinks on Allen Funt's "Candid Camera."

Kirby keeps a busy schedule. From Monday morning through Friday, his hours are pretty well devoted to rehearsing the weekly Garry Moore program, involving as often as not, extra time spent learning dance steps and song lyrics.

On Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, he and Moore go to CBS Radio studios where they tape, at a rate of four at a clip, their daily 10-minute radio show. "All we do is sit around and talk — and be provocative," he says.

On alternate Wednesdays he spends the afternoon and evening taping two "Candid Camera" programs, which involves looking over the filmed segments in advance and planning the introductions to each.

Kirby, a native of Covington, Ky., originally wanted to be an aeronautical engineer, but his college radio job changed all that.

Paul Newman and Elke Sommer rescue Edward G. Robinson from a gang of kidnappers in one of the tense moments from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's exciting drama, "The Prize." Filmed in Panavision and Metrocolor, the story revolves about a young American novelist who comes to Stockholm to accept a Nobel Prize and walks into both murderous danger and an uninhibited love affair. It was directed by Mark Robson. Now showing at the Fox Theatre.

"FORE"
Was enjoying a cup of coffee at Crowns the other morning when one of my good friends slapped me on the back and asked, "Russ, did you really write that article I read last week end?" Now of all the remarks made and asked of me about that article this was the strangest of all. It doesn't take a Genius to write an article like that. Geniuses, as you know, are Edisons, Liberaces and Snodgrasses. But really the answer to that inquiry is "No" I didn't write it. It was written downtown. I just assembled it and inserted it in the paper. No, I haven't been annexed yet either; but someone has been looking around 'cause my water has been cut off. Then I'm not as anxious as I was to get annexed. I want to see what happens on the west side first and how many buildings have to be torn down. Also had a 'phone call this week cautioning me to watch my step. The voice sounded like Stan Hudson, but I can't be sure. I don't think it was, however. He's not in business any more. By the way, if the sun shines this week and I have enough money to pay a dollar or two to each of my creditors and have a few dollars left I'll see you here next weekend. Maybe I'll see you anyway, because one of my creditors called and asked, "Is this Russ at ELM HILLS PUBLIC GOLF COURSE?" When I assured him it was, he said "Well Russ, I'm marking your account paid in full — you just keep writing." You know, I may just do that, after I find out who cut off my water supply.

Ford Official To Speak At Optimist Meet

Edwin J. Riley, assistant manager of the Kansas City district sales office of Ford Division of Ford Motor Company, will speak Tuesday at a noon luncheon meeting of the Sedalia Optimist Club at Hotel Bothwell.

In his talk, entitled "'A' Is For Automobile — Color It Complicated," Riley will discuss current automotive marketing techniques, with particular emphasis on Ford Division's "total performance" program and its nationwide efforts to have as many people as possible test drive its products.

A native of New York City, Riley joined Ford in 1950 as a sales analyst with Central Staff Sales and Advertising in Dearborn, Mich. He was appointed a field manager in Ford Division's Philadelphia district sales office in 1953, and held a number of positions there before being transferred to the division's general sales office in Dearborn in 1957 as retail finance coordinator.

He was supervisor of heavy truck merchandising, then manager of parts and service promotion for the division before his appointment in December, 1963, to the Kansas City post.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Sunday, Feb., 16, 1964 — In Combination With The Morning Capital — Feature Section

ALTHOUGH THE People-to-People program at Heber U. Hunt School, now involves a large number of children in grade 4, 1963-64, and the four second grades at the school, above are the youngsters who, under their teacher, Mrs. Virgil Ellis, second left, top row, really started the ball rolling with friendship between them and children of other countries. It was their letters that brought the letters from the children of the little rural school in Scotland.

Tiny Hands Across the Sea Program by Local Students

Judgment And Respect Is Nurtured

People-to-People Program Viewed As Peace Route

By Hazel Lang

The bold letter of a youngster painstakingly printed between the blue lines of the white paper from a large schoolroom notebook and written on both sides is a little letter, among many other letters, written together by Benny, Ian, John, Andrew a Vivien — each one signing their own name.

It begins: "Dear Friends," and is from Achergile School, by Wick, Caithness, Scotland, to their new found friends in America the fourth grade pupils, taught by Mrs. Estelle Ellis at Heber Hunt School. It is a "Little People to Little People," program.

"We are the youngest pupils in our school," they wrote. "Some of us are just five. We like to play at cowboys and Indians. In winter we go sledding and have snowball fights. We have fun. We sometimes dance to the music on the wireless."

Ackergile is a rural school near Wick and Jean Roy is the teacher with children in her school from five to 12 years old.

"Our land is flat," wrote nine year old Anne Leith, "we have no mountains but we have locks and rivers. Our nearest town is called Wick. We are just finished our exams. There are six in my class. There are 23 in all the school. In summer we see the yachts out in Sinclair Bay. In our summer holidays I went to Inverness and saw a circus. In winter time we go sleding and fling snowballs at each other and make snowmen. Sometimes we go to Girnigo castle and see dungeons. There is a new castle, too. The aeroplanes go over our school to the aerodrome. Some aeroplanes are very big. At Christmas time Santa Claus comes and gives us a toy. He gave me a doll with a striped frock on The thing I like best on television is Crackerjack."

These were some of the descriptive letters that came after the fourth grade last year, taught by Mrs. Ellis, had written to the school selected for them by the People to People Program, and had sent not only letters but pictures of the school the children had sketched and pictures of various things about town.

It had been an exciting time for the children in the little Scotland school and as George Falconer put it, "Our classroom has many pictures stuck up on the wall. We stuck up the pictures you sent us."

George said his dad works at Dounreay, which is the atomic research establishment, and by this time he and three other boys in the school are in the high school in Wick, for it was near this time last year when the letters were written, the period between Christmas and Easter.

Almost all the people around there are farmers, he said, and corn and potatoes are sown and planted.

They sent a sample of their corn, and the Sedalia children, although perhaps none of them came from a farm, were surprised to see that it is what they call oats — but they found that all grain there is called corn.

"I see a lot of lambs in every field," George wrote, "because it is spring."

He explained their money, too. "We have many different coins," he said. "A penny and a half penny is brown, a threepenny is golden, a sixpence is silver, so is a half crown and a two shilling bit. We have paper money, too, a pound and a ten shilling note." In the package were reproductions of the various coins in cardboard money.

In the package were a couple of comic books one from a boy and one from a girl and the girl wrote: "This is my favorite—I am knitting the coat pattern inside this comic." The name of the comic was "Sunshine Weekly." There was also "John O'Groat Journal and Weekly Advertiser" and an issue of "Farming News."

Some of the papers contained a picture of Princess Alexander and the Queen from Anne Leith. The children were very much interested in her wedding for several wrote about it, but although she started out with Princess Alexander a little girl named Elizabeth MacAulay was much more interested in the wedding of her sister, on Feb. 15, 1962, in which she was a flower girl and wore a blue nylon dress.

Margaret Sinclair wrote that her sister got married, too. "I had on a yellow dress and party shoes" she said, and added, "Sheena, my little cousin, gave her a black cat."

Telling more about her way of life Elizabeth said:

"We are going to make a garden. We are going to put flowers in it. We are bringing spades to dig it. We went round collecting for the life boat. We have nearly F3. The money is used to buy life boats. Sometimes they have to go out in storms and save men who have been ship wrecked. I am in the band. I am playing a triangle. We are going to the festival in Wick."

Alastair Sinclair said he had a rabbit that is black and white, a dog that is black and white and a cat with a black eye. He also told of games they play. "We play hide and seek, rounders and football," he said.

A little girl named Helen Cormack said she had two gold fish, one orange and the other spotted, and Derek Smith wrote: "We have a budgie and it is bonny. It is green. I sold him to Gordon but he came back to my house." And for those who do not know what a budgie is, it is an Australian parakeet, and a lock is a lake.

Gordon MacAulay wrote that he has three pet lambs. They have no mother so they feed them with milk from a bottle. He has seven pigeons and just lets them eat the corn on their farm. Gordon also sent a piece of peat which they use as fuel.

"Our cat has four kittens," wrote Tommy McPhee, the new boy in the school, "two are white and black and the others gray.

There was a collection of shells that Elizabeth sent and among them were four groatiebuckies which she said were lucky.

Jeana Coghill said that in geography they are learning about a boy called Harry who lives in America. His father grows cotton, and she adds: "I would like to see cotton fields." Although cotton is grown in Missouri there are probably many Sedalia youngsters who have never seen a cotton field either.

Carole Mackay said a farmer who lives beside them has two boats. "He has lobsters creels, too, my daddy goes out with him to catch crabs and lobsters. I like to eat crabs. We boil them in a pan. One nearly jumped out of the pan. We had them for our tea."

John Dunnett wrote: "I help my uncle on the farm. He has sheep and cattle and tractors. I want to be a farmer when I grow up." George Dunnett said that he made a sledge. He went on to say that when they look out on the North Sea there are two castles Sinclair and Girnigoe.

Ian Leith said that his father works at a quarry. He repairs lorries. Edinburgh is the capital of Scotland and he said he had been in the castle there and the speedway. There are lots of shops and they are very big. There is a floral clock in Princes street. The castle is built on a rock. Soldiers live in the castle now.

Elizabeth Coghill wrote about what they do in school. "We get a sum test every Friday. We get painting on Friday. We have flowers in school. We rolled our eggs on Easter Day."

It was P. A. Sillers, director of elementary education in Sedalia public schools, who asked Mrs. Ellis if she would be interested in such a program a year ago last fall, and she said she would. That was how it all started in Heber Hunt School. They didn't get a school until spring and it was Ackergile school in Scotland. Learning the Sedalia school was such a big one, Jean Roy, teacher of Ackergile, was glad when she found that Mrs. Ellis had once taught a school like hers.

The replies to the Heber Hunt school pupils letters and pictures came too late for Mrs. Ellis' last year fourth graders who have now moved up to fifth grade, but the youngsters were thrilled to give up a recess on a day last fall to read the letters and look at what had come from Scotland.

The children in Mrs. Ellis' room sent many things, a tepee and canoe to tell about the American Indians, pictures, letters and brochures on Sedalia, which they got at the Chamber of Commerce.

This year four of the teachers of second grade at Heber Hunt School, Miss Hazel Barnett, Miss Barbara Freund, Mrs. Marva Flournoy and Mrs. Charlene Bunger, have gone together and a school in Japan has been selected for them. They sent a package: photographs of homes during the different season, and they wrote letters telling of pets, family, life in general. Thanksgiving, a picture of the court house and one of the Capitol.

They have a letter from the principal, Saburo Mori, Imao Primary School, Hirato - oho, Kaizu - gun, Gifu Pref, Japan, who wrote:

"We are very glad to make your acquaintance through the school and classroom program of People to People.

"We are eager to shake hand with your school by exchanging

'The Deputy' To Broadway

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Deputy," a play that has incited cheers, catcalls and commotion all over Europe, is being readied for Broadway, and producer-director Herman Shumlin is ready for almost anything.

"I know there will be great antagonism," he says, "but I know we are doing something important, valid and exciting for the theater."

Starring Emlyn Williams and Jeremy Brett, the exhibit is scheduled to premier at the Atkinson on Feb. 26.

Already some Jewish and Catholic groups have protested presentation of the drama that criticizes Pope Pius XII, alleging he did not speak out against Hitler's annihilation of millions of Jews during World War II.

"Only those who haven't seen it or read it are against it," Shumlin asserts. "This is a play about silence — the silence of all of us. And I mean me."

Turbulence has marked the play's course since it opened in Berlin a year ago. An uproar of protest ensued. Spectators hurled rotten eggs at the cast when it was done in Basel. Pickets paraded at its London debut.

The fiercest reaction developed in Paris, where intransigent members of audiences broke up several performances by shouting insults, blowing whistles and jumping on the stage to wrestle with the actors. A dozen other cities get productions in 1964.

Pope Paul VI has criticized it; Albert Schweitzer and Pastor Martin Niemoller are among its supporters.

"You can measure the importance of a play by the amount of controversy it creates," declares Shumlin, a chunkily-built, bald veteran of many Broadway campaigns.

"I am a man who takes the world seriously and I take the theater seriously. I believe with Shaw that the theater is the foremost pulpit in the world from which to speak.

"The place where too many Catholics are offended is in the actual presentation of Pius XII on stage. They wouldn't mind if this Pope had died 200 years ago. No one objects to references to a Pope in 'Luther' or in 'A Man For All Seasons'."

The pontiff appears in only one scene of the original, but a reading of the full-length work — to be published here by Grove Press — discloses continuous emphasis on the Holy See policy in 1942.

"Why is there not a single word heard from the only man in Europe still free today from any taint of propaganda: The Pope," one character asks early in the action.

The indictment intensifies when the drama's central figure, a young priest based upon two German clerics of World War II, declares:

"A deputy of Christ who sees these things and nonetheless permits reasons of state to seal his lips — who wastes even one day in thought, hesitates even for an hour to lift his anguished voice in one anathema to chill the blood of every last man on earth — that Pope is . . . a criminal."

At the drama's end the priest accompanies a group of Jews to the furnaces of Auschwitz.

Says Shumlin: "The Pope is only a symbol — he is representative of the silence of everyone in those days.

"If the play only reminded us that we failed as human beings then, I don't think I'd do it.

"But I hope this play will make people say — such silence is true even today. We've all taken the easy way in the problems that face our world — and we need to be awakened to our responsibility."

Portraying the young priest is Brett, a Londoner in his first major Broadway appearance.

"I'm not Jewish, I'm not Catholic," says Williams. "I'm just an actor who knows a good role."

His Job: Safer Flying

By BOB SHAW

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — One afternoon in 1947 a crop-dusting pilot was about to finish spraying a field in Maryland.

The sun was on the horizon, and his vision was impaired. He was tired.

As he banked the biplane to make another pass at the field, the lower left wingtip caught a power line. He had misjudged his distance.

The plane flipped over. The pilot tried to fly it upside down, but he was too close to the ground. The craft plowed into the field upside down.

Howard Hasbrook's left arm was broken in eight places between the elbow and the shoulder. His left shoulder was dislocated. His chest was crushed. Several vertebrae in his neck were dislocated. His face, chest and neck were cut by glass. His head struck an overhead fuel tank. He was drenched with fuel.

"I should have been killed," he said of the accident. "Most crashes of this type are fatal."

Today Hasbrook investigates aviation accidents. He looks for reasons for any injuries or reasons for the lack of injuries. Hasbrook, whose gray hair has receded enough to show a scar from his 1947 crash, is chief of the crash safety section and flight research operations at the Federal Aviation Agency's Civil Aeromedical Research Institute here.

Flown Them All

Hasbrook has flown practically every type of civilian aircraft since he became a pilot in 1930. He coordinates all flight research for the institute, and takes the controls of a specially instrumented T34 on research flights. Before he came here three years ago, Hasbrook was director of Cornell University's aviation crash injury research program.

Hasbrook summed up his work this way:

"We come up with data that a design engineer can take and design an airplane with no additional weight, with no loss in performance, so anyone involved in a surviveable accident not only will survive, but without serious injury, regardless if the accident is caused by pilot failure."

In aviation, both commercial and private, Hasbrook sees two great dangers to an airplane occupant in case of a crash landing.

He might receive a severe head injury from striking his head on a seat back or the instrument panel, or he might be fatally stabbed by a sharp object in the aircraft. Also, he might have a chance to survive, but die in a subsequent fire if his escape route is blocked.

Hasbrook has a ready remedy for most cases — a shoulder harness for the pilot and his passengers.

In airplanes used for crop dusting Hasbrook also would install the instrument panel so it would break free and fall forward on high impact, and would install soft, shock-absorbing material above the panel.

He calls this "delethalization." That's a word he claims credit for coining. "I needed a word to say what it would take a paragraph to explain," he said.

Hasbrook says the plane in which he crashed was inadvertently delethalized. That's why he wasn't killed.

Delethalizing Cars

Most of his work now involves humans in airplanes, but he also has worked in automobile crash safety.

First, he's all for seat belts for everybody.

He also would build doors which would stay locked after high impact. Instruments would be imbedded deeply in a cushioned panel. And the windshield would be installed out of reach, or would be constructed to pop out on impact.

Perhaps the most lethal piece of hardware in an auto, Hasbrook says, is the steering column.

One end of the long steel shaft is about a foot from the driver's chest. The other end is near the left front wheel — a likely point to take full impact in a collision.

Auto manufacturers would make Hasbrook happy by going back 30 years or so in their design of the steering mechanism. In the '30s he says, steering was done through a series of links between the wheels and the driver. There was no potentially fatal spear pointed at the driver, he says.

Hobby Injury

When he isn't flying, Hasbrook is on horseback. He raises quarterhorses. He also is a rodeo fan.

Last May, the man who tries to keep airline passengers intact, was attending a rodeo at Harrah, Okla. He was sitting on the top row of the bleachers. A woman sat on his foot. He leaned back to remove his foot and the back rest broke.

Hasbrook fell eight feet to the ground. His head narrowly missed the front bumper of a car parked behind the seats. His hip was broken.

He now walks with a slight limp, wiht a steel pin, a small steel plate and seven screws in his leg.

Hasbrook says he may try some day to figure a way to keep rodeo spectators intact, also.

Letters Seek Sentimental Postmark

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Three communities, diverse, thousands of miles apart, and so small there are less than 4,000 persons among them—are the Valentines of America and their hearts pulsate the nation's sentimentality.

When St. Valentine's Day approaches the beat quickens to rapid tat-tat-tats as stamping machines bang their romantic postmarks on thousands of envelopes just passing through.

Because this is also Leap Year it is difficult to estimate the exact number of sacks filled with scented, lacy, red paper hearts sent to these places to be remailed to sweethearts everywhere. But there will be plenty.

Named after a family of early settlers, Valentine, Va., is a handful of farm houses and a general store on Route 46.

"Nothing much happens around here," says Sheriff W. E. Hill, until the somnolent little postal station suddenly stirs to life at Valentine - sending time.

Heart of Texas

At the turn of the century on Valentine's Day the Southern Pacific railroad steamed into an isolated settlement 160 miles west of El Paso and another postmark collector's item—Valentine, Tex., was born.

Since then in this land of sprawling cattle ranches the community of Valentine has not grown much. It boasts of a Catholic and a Protestant church, six gas stations, three grocery stores, a tourist court, and 350 residents.

Ranching and railroading are the chief interests of the people here, says Mrs. Dennis Baldwin, wife of the town's deputy sheriff. But when February 14 rolls around, a third "R", romance, gets a very big hand at the post office at the crossroads.

The Buffaloes

Big by comparison is Valentine, Nebr., nestled between a game refuge where the deer, elk and buffalo roam, and the Rosebud Indian reservation. At last count the population was 3,445. 1,000 of this since 1960 the year Lyle Lindstrom became city manager.

Here where the waterfalls are the nearest thing to Niagara, love is a many-splendored thing thoroughly endorsed by Chamber of Commerce with a heart-shaped letter brand and a town celebration.

Valentine High School prepares a pageant climaxed with a coronation ball on the day of hearts, and the whole town takes part, enthuses Lindstrom. "And, oh, the mail we get!"

Love Everywhere

Still, valentine towns are not the only ones to make the most of this holiday for the saint of sentimental messages. Billing itself as the "City of Sweethearts" is Loveland, Colo., which also does a thriving mailing business.

There are also Lovelands in Iowa, Ohio, and Oklahoma. Kansas has a Lovewell. There are Loving towns in Georgia, New Mexico, and Texas. Texas also has a Lovejoy, a Love Lady, and a Love Field rating as the most love-conscious of the 50 states. In Mississippi there is a town of Love.

But what's in a name? In Nevada, of all places, there is a community called Lovelock, and everybody knows that in that state the lock is never very tight.

Mrs. Earl L. Bauer

Miss Constance Van Booven And Mr. Earl Bauer Married

Miss Constance Van Booven, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fisher, Sr., 1604 East Harvey, became the bride of Mr. Earl L. Bauer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lienus Bauer, Route 1, Cole Camp, at 5:30 in the afternoon, Monday, Feb. 2, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Cole Camp. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Marvin H. Remmers.

Preceding the ceremony the candles were lighted by Mr. Harold Van Booven, 1604 East Harvey, brother of the bride, and Mr. Lowell Bergman, 524 West Third, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride, whose stepfather, Mr. Tom Fisher, Sr., gave her in marriage, chose for her wedding a street length dress of white nylon fashioned with fitted bodice of lace with three-quarter length sleeves. She wore a necklace and earrings of rhinestones, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations.

Mrs. Harold Schroder, Route 1, Lincoln, sister of the bridegroom, and the bride's only attendant, wore a ballerina length dress of turquoise lace over taffeta.

Mr. Harold Schroder, Route 1, Lincoln, was best man for Mr. Bauer.

The candlelighters also served as ushers.

Mrs. Fisher, mother of the bride, wore a dress of black and red print design with black velvet jacket, and Mrs. Bauer, mother of the bridegroom, selected for the wedding a jacket dress of turquoise shade. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception was held at 8 o'clock in the evening at the American Legion Building and was attended by 200 guests.

The couple are at home at 420 North Prospect.

Mr. Bauer was graduated from Cole Camp High School in the class of 1962, and is now employed at Steam-O-Matic.

President Warren G. Harding was the first U. S. chief executive to pay income tax, in 1923.

letters, art work, and other projects, for the purpose of strengthening the ties of friendship that keep your nation and ours united as brothers.

"It is our sincere hope that this exchange program may help to bring greater international understanding and mutual respect between us.

"Our school children and PTA want to know a great deal about your school and community, your way of life and the activities of your PTA, etc.

"We are living in a small town named Hirata, which is about 40 KM west of Nagoya City, the third largest city in Japan. The population of our town is about 9,000, and there are two primary schools and one junior high school. The Imao Primary School is one of them and it has about 700 boys and girls and 400 members of the PTA.

"Though we are poor at English we are second to none in our enthusiasm for promoting the friendship between USA and Japan.

"We do hope we shall become good friends like brothers and sisters with your school and PTA."

The packages sent had not yet arrived at either destination yet, as have the letters from the children, the pictures and all the things that have come from Scotland to the pupils of Mrs. Ellis and have gone to Scotland from them, but the friendship and the interest is just as strong. The children of Heber Hunt School are excited and happy to have their new friends in other lands—the thrill of "Little People to Little People" a way of promoting peace among those of tender years who are interested in anybody, anywhere, who are children like themselves and who will grow up with a love and better understanding for their fellowmen around the world.

Barriers Down At Notasulga

NOTASULGA, Ala. (AP)—Racial barriers fell Friday in the rural community of Notasulga when six Negroes went to class in a school where only white pupils had studied before.

Three and a half hours later they were dismissed for the day with the explanation that their first day at school was taken up with orientation.

For the fifth day in a row, all white pupils boycotted the high school. Most of them transferred to a white private school in Tuskegee.

A white faculty remained in Notasulga, with only six pupils in a school whose normal enrollment is 174.

As the Negroes stepped off a county-owned bus and walked into the building, Mayor James Rea watched from across the street. He was prohibited by federal court order from turning the Negroes away as he did last week.

Rea invoked a newly enacted fire safety ordinance in blocking the Negroes in their first appearance Feb. 5. U.S. Dist. Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. handed down an injunction on Thursday preventing the mayor from further use of that ordinance or any other to interfere with the integration.

The fire prevention ordinance empowered Rea to limit the number of persons in any public building. He told the Negro pupils that the school was crowded to safety capacity.

Johnson called the law a subterfuge to perpetuate school segregation.

At another Macon County school, Shorter High, six other Negroes were in class again, but once more, no white pupils showed up.

A spreading boycott there has let the Shorter school, like the one at Notasulga, deserted except for the white teachers and Negro pupils.

Mr. and Mrs. Karlton Imler, Tipton, announce the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn, to L-CPL Russell Gibson, Cherry Point, N.C., son of the Rev. and Mrs. Victor Gibson, Pasadena, Calif. Miss Imler, a 1963 graduate of Tipton High School, is employed as a file clerk at Sears Roebuck and Company, Kansas City. L-CPL Gibson is a graduate of the Eldon High School and has served in the US Marines the past 2½ years. A spring wedding is being planned.

To Celebrate 60th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Harbison, Versailles, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday, Feb. 2, with a family dinner at their home.

Those present for the occasion were their son, Robert Harbison, Jefferson City; their daughters, Mrs. Charles Baird and Mr. Baird, Kansas City, and grandchildren: Mr. and Mrs. Robert Agnew and family of Muncie, Kans., Mr. and Mrs. Billy Lee Harbison and family, Eldon; Mrs. Blanche Shipman, Jefferson City; Robert F. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harvey, Kansas City.

A daughter, Mrs. Irene Goodman, Columbus, Ohio, was unable to be present.

Color television, in a crude state, was demonstrated as teen-agers.

Police Seek Tormentor Of Collie

BARRE, Vt. (AP) — Police are seeking whoever bound and gagged a pet collie dog and left it to die in a hole. The dog's misery lasted six days.

"It makes you sick just to think of it," said Mrs. John P. Tomasi, whose daughter, Connie, 21, owned the dog.

Pacer was the dog's name. It vanished last Thursday. The family worried because it never did that before.

But Pacer wasn't very far away.

Four neighborhood youngsters found the dog Wednesday in a wooded lot within 300 feet of the Tomasi house.

The 2-year-old dog was in a three-foot hole. Its legs were tightly bound with twine.

A string also was tied tightly around its snout, making it impossible to bark.

Brush was thrown over the hole to prevent anyone from finding the dog.

Police helped the youngsters carry the dog home.

Tom Tomasi, 14, bathed the dog's wounds as Connie and Mrs. Tomasi tried to comfort Pacer. But Pacer was dying.

A veterinarian convinced the family Pacer should be put to sleep.

Pacer held on to life only long enough to say "goodby" to the Tomasi family.

Twenty per cent of U. S. unemployment is composed of early as 1930, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Mayor And Mrs. Jessee Allee, Versailles, Hold Open House

Mayor and Mrs. Jesse Allee, Versailles, entertained with an open house in the Women's Civic Club Rooms of the City Hall on Sunday, Feb. 2, from two to five o'clock in observance of their Golden Wedding Anniversary.

One hundred fifty guests called during the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Allee greeted the guests at the door, Mrs. Allee wearing a dress of gold lace over gold taffeta with a shoulder corsage of yellow roses. Mr. Allee wore a yellow rosebud boutonniere in the lapel of his coat.

The refreshment table was covered with yellow taffeta with an overlay of yellow net. The four tier wedding cake was decorated with gold and white sugar bells and gold roses and was encircled with gold mums. Tall yellow tapers in crystal candelabra flanked the cake which was baked by Mrs. Irvin Moon. Gold net ribbons, attached to the four corners of the table, led to the cluster of golden bells suspended from the center of the table.

The Allees received many beautiful gifts including numerous potted yellow mums. An attractive arrangement of yellow and white mums was a gift from the members of the City Council.

Among those present from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Pease, Overland Park, Kans.; Lennie M. Bresrech and Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Harris, Jr., Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Warden Hills, Independence; Mr. and Mrs. Pierce Chastain and Mr and Mrs. Price Allee, Raytown; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wiliams, Barnett; Mr. and Mrs. Melva Hunter, Albany, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney E. Missing Hair Jitters Are Easing Up

SRINAGAR, Kashmir (AP) — Jittery Srinagar is recovering from the case of the prophet's hair and India is breathing easier for the moment.

It was a single hair—Moslems here believe it to be the Prophet Mohammed's — that vanished Dec. 26 and shook up this snowy state.

Riots broke out and blood was spilled on the Indian side of the cease-fire line in Kashmir, over which India and Pakistan have fought and argued since 1947.

Pakistan quickly accused India of mistreating its Moslem community. Moslems rioted against the Hindu minority in Indian West Bengal.

The whole thing embarrassed the Indian government because politicians it sponsored in Kashmir were shown to be widely hated.

By worsening India-Pakistan relations, these events worried the world.

All of this over a brown hair in a little glass tube, kept in a green bag in a silver casket.

Who stole it from its gilded vault in Hazratbal shrine?

Many Srinagar citizens suspect the state political machine itself, believing the regime wanted to provoke trouble that would justify repressing its opponents.

Police say that Pakistan was responsible and that the trouble was timed with Pakistan's U.N. Security Council charges against India on Kashmir.

There is no evidence available to support either claim.

The hair, which many Moslems believe has supernatural protective powers, mysteriously reappeared Jan. 4.

The case weakened the state government while boosting the standing of cautious opponents.

In summer over 100,000 tourists vacation on Kashmir lakes and buy Kashmir—cashmere—wool.

In winter, snow covers the 84x20-mile valley nestled among spurs of the Himalayas, 400 miles north of Delhi. No tourists come and poverty prevails.

Another factor is the wealth of Kashmir's recent rulers, Bakshi Ghulam Mohammed and his relatives. They started with nothing when propped into power by India and after 10 years of rule they own real estate, hotels, shops and movie houses. There is widespread suspicion this money came from Indian government development funds. Bakshi's regime ignores the suspicions.

One reason for mob fury was the repressive nature of the state government. Bakshi, then a state minister, began his rule by jailing the state prime minister, Sheik Mohammed Abdullah, an extremely popular figure known as the Lion of Kashmir.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Gaebler, Shrewsbury, Mo., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Judith Anne Gaebler, to Michael D. Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Edwards, 521 West Fifth. He is now a senior at the University of Missouri and upon graduation will receive a commission of second lieutenant in the United States Air Force. His fraternity is Phi Kappa Theta. He is the brother of Miss Janet Edwards. Wedding plans are indefinite.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Saults, Knob Noster, announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna Lee, to Leif Marek Halverson, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bourke of Shelby, Mont. Miss Saults is a 1962 graduate of the Knob Noster High School. She is a sophomore at Central Missouri State College in Warrensburg, and she is a member of Sigma Kappa social sorority. Mr. Halverson is a graduate of Shattuck Military Academy in Faribault, Minn. He attended the University of Montana and Central Missouri State College. He is serving in the United States Air Force and presently is stationed at Hunter Air Force Base, Savannah, Ga.

A summer wedding is planned.

Mr. and Mrs Fritz Korte, Pilot Grove, announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis June, to Mr. Ronald L. Brownfield, son of Mr. Harlan Brownfield, Pilot Grove. Miss Korte is a 1962 graduate of Pilot Grove High School. Mr. Brownfield, also a 1962 graduate of Pilot Grove High School, is serving in the Airborne Division of the U. S. Army at Fort Bragg, N. C. Wedding plans have not been announced.

Mr. and Mrs. George Zuroweste of Kansas City announce the engagement of their daughter, Linda, to Mr. Dennis Gerzick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Gerzick of Kansas City, Kan. Miss Zuroweste is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Riley, 1708 West Fifth. A summer wedding is planned.

CALLING ALL HOMEMAKERS
by Mary Studer

HOW DO YOU START FURNISHING YOUR HOME?

Mrs. [illegible]

I have asked this question of three prominent decorators and received these answers.

One said he always starts with the floor covering. After this has been decided upon, he works out his color scheme, selection of furniture, drapes and accessories from there, keeping in mind the type, color and texture of the floor covering.

A famous lady decorator said she starts with the sofa or sectional sofa since that is the main item in the living room and the living room is the most important room in the house.

The third replied that she always begins by decorating the walls with wall paper or paint or a combination of both.

The important thing to remember, regardless of how you get started, is to visualize the entire picture, just as an author must have an outline of his entire story before he can start writing the book.

Of course, your furniture and decorating will express your own personality and way of life, which is as it should be. If you want ideas, visit our store where you will find the latest ideas in decoration and good decorators to help you.

4 slices of Longhorn cheese

Bring 6 quarts of water to a rapid boil. Add 2 tablespoons of salt and 14 ozs. of macaroni. Cook uncovered, with water boiling rapidly. Stir frequently. Cook until tender, approximately 6 to 8 minutes. Drain thoroughly and blanch (rinse) with hot water. Caution — Do not overcook.

Drain liquid off tomatoes. Pour tomatoes, tomato sauce or catsup, chopped onion on macaroni in large bowl and mix well. Add oregano, sweet basil, salt, pepper and sugar. Mix well and cut cheese into small pieces, mix through ingredients reserving some cheese to decorate top. Place mixture in large baking dish and bake in oven 350 F. about 45 minutes or until surface is a rich golden brown. Let me suggest setting casserole in a shallow pan of water and baking in a moderately slow oven 325 F. about 45 minutes or until surface is a rich golden brown.

Alice's Pickled Beets 'N Eggs
Mrs. Doyle Ross Mabry
208 West 17th St.

1 No. 303 can beets, whole or
1 quart home canned pickled beets
6 hard boiled eggs left whole

Mixture for No. 303 can size beets. Pour liquid into small sauce pan, sprinkle with salt. Heat to boiling enough sweetened vinegar (half as much sugar as vinegar). Every cook must use judgment using vinegar and sugar because taste varies. If a spicy beef pickle is desired, add any desired spices to vinegar while heating such as cloves, cinnamon, allspice, whole peppers. Two medium Bermuda onions if you like onions. Pour this mixture over beets, onions and hard boiled eggs and let stand at least an hour or until cold before serving.

If you prefer using fresh beets, use one medium bunch of beets, cook. Remove skins and slice beets ¼-inch thick, and measure slices, then slice thinly half as many Bermuda onions and add to beets, be sure to use two medium onions.

If using home canned pickled beets, just heat liquid in sauce pan and pour over beets, onions and hard boiled eggs.

1 cup chili sauce or catsup
1 cup salad oil
1 tsp. paprika

⅔ cup vinegar
⅔ cup sugar
1 tsp. dry mustard

Whole Meal Salad
Mrs. Anna Lee Ray
600 West Henry St.

This is what to do with leftovers

2 cups cold roast
4 hard cooked eggs
1 head lettuce or other salad greens
6 green onions
pepper, Tabasco
2 3 oz. American cheese
1 cup mayonnaise
⅓ cup chili sauce
½ tsp. Worchestershire sauce
salt
½ cup celery
8 or 10 cherry tomatoes

This salad can be ruined in two ways; chopping the ingredients into little pieces and over mixing. So follow the directions carefully. Mix mayonnaise, chili sauce, Worchestershire sauce, chopped green onions, tabasco and salt and pepper into a zippy tasting dressing. Cut roast (beef, lamb, pork, chicken, tongue) into generous bite size pieces. Slice celery thin. Tear lettuce into convenient size pieces for eating. Halve tomatoes, cut eggs into good size chunks. Toss these together in an oversized bowl until they are well mixed, then put the dressing on top and with the lightest touch possible mix only until all ingredients have a little dressing on them. Sprinkle the top with slivered cheese. Serves 4 - 6.

Mrs. Doyle Ross Mabry
208 West 17th St.

1 lb. fresh raw cranberries
3 medium size juicy oranges
2 medium size red apples
1 cup chopped nut meats
1 package cherry or strawberry gelatin

Use your sharp paring kitchen knife to cut fresh raw cranberries as fine as you possibly can. Do not peel oranges or apples, just remove seeds and core. Cut fine as you can oranges and apples, add to cranberries. Be sure to use at least 1 cup white sugar to raw cranberries, oranges and apples, more if raw fruits taste sour or sharp to your taste. Add chopped nut meats.

Prepare cherry or strawberry gelatin, one cup hot water to dissolve and one cup cold water. Pour while hot over cranberries, oranges, apples, sugar and nut meats and mix well. Leave in mixing bowl or divide mixture in small fruit serving bowls and set in refrigerator over night. A very pretty salad and different in taste.

1 lb. package of wieners
1 cup tomato catsup
1 tbsp. mustard
Salt and pepper to taste
¼ lb. salted soda crackers

Use kitchen paring knife and cut diamond shape wedges lightly into each wiener, just barely through skins so tomato catsup and mustard will cling to each wiener. Mix tomato catsup and mustard in small flat bowl and sprinkle with salt and pepper to suit taste. Use four crackers at a time, place on waxed paper on kitchen table, using a rolling pin on crackers until you have cracker meal. After you have dipped wieners in tomato catsup and mustard, dip into cracker meal until well coated. The thicker coating of cracker meal the better. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Heat oven to 350 degrees. Place wieners on greased baking sheet and bake in oven 15 minutes or until coating on wieners is brown. Serve hot.

Be sure to use one tablespoon heaping with shortening per 2 slices. Melt shortening in skillet on top stove burner. Beat with fork French mixture. and now..."INSTANT EXERCISE!"

Get the slimmer, stronger body you want with a fabulous new minute-a-day short-cut developed and proved out by a leading coach

IMAGINE a 6-second exercise that helps keep you fit better than 24 push-ups! Or, another that's capable of doubling muscular strength in 3 weeks!

Both these "quickie" exercises are part of a fantastically simple body-building method developed by Alabama Doctor of Education, fitness expert and coach, Donald J. Salls. His own trim physique, his family's vigorous health and the nail-hard brawn of his teams are dramatic proof of the results he gets — not to mention the steady stream of reports from housewives, athletes, even school children who have discovered Dr. Salls' remarkable exercises.

Most Americans find exercise a tedious chore. Yet we all recognize the urgent personal and social needs for keeping our bodies strong, shapely and healthy. What man wouldn't take secret pride in displaying a more muscular figure? What woman doesn't long to trade in those flabby spots for a slimmer, more attractive figure?

The endless time and trouble required to get such results has been a major, if not impossible, hurdle for so many of us. But now doctors, trainers and physical educators are beginning to recommend the easy new approach to body fitness and contour control that Dr. Salls has distilled down to his wonderfully simple set of 10 exercises.

Each of Dr. Salls' exercises take only 6 seconds. All total just 1 minute per day. And you can do most of these "static exercises" almost anywhere—at work, waiting for a bus, while shaving in the morning. No special equipment is required. There's no special exertion, not even heavy breathing!

"Research shows that the right kind of exercise is much more important than how much you take," points out Dr. Salls. And there's overwhelming evidence that his kind of exercise is the right kind. The revolutionary principle he's applying has the impressive support of several highly respected educational institutions, leading physiologists, physical educators, Olympic stars, fashion models and scores of professional athletes.

Time Magazine, Reader's Digest, newspapers and scientific journals have started to call nationwide attention to the exciting concept behind Dr. Salls' minute-a-day "static exercises." One leading university recently published a bulletin stating: "This new method brings together all the known scientific facts of strength development and body mechanics. It is scientifically proven and a very rapid way of developing super strength."

It all started when a European scientist tied down one leg of a frog in a laboratory experiment. Later inspection revealed that the tied leg grew stronger than the free leg — because of what physiologists call isometric tension. The same principle then was applied to the human body. Within days, specialized tension exercises of a few seconds duration each were found to greatly increase muscular strength, firm up flabby areas, even improve general posture. It was later established that a slimmer figure can result from tight, strong muscles as well as from weight reduction.

Then Dr. Salls perfected his set of "10 static exercises in 1 minute"— his XSXIM Program — built on this quick, almost effortless approach.

Results have been surprising. For example:

Mrs. Arland Carter, Ft. Payne housewife, reports that in 14 days Dr. Salls' exercises took ¾ of an inch off her calves, 1 inch off her thighs, 2 inches off her waist.

E. V. Newman, a supervisor of physical education in Alabama, writes that "after 3 weeks of isometric exercises one of my students increased his ability to press (lift) from 160 pounds to 240 pounds."

J. B. Hammett, a Jacksonville service station operator, states that Dr. Salls' "static exercises" have allowed him to take 3½ inches off his waistline, trim down to a youthful 30½ inch girth in less than 10 weeks.

In short, Dr. Salls offers followers of his "10 static exercises in 1 minute":

stronger, firmer muscles • slimmed down waist, thighs, calves, forearms and neck by toning and tightening muscles • better muscular coordination and endurance • stronger back • improved posture.

Results are controlled primarily by the individual's own ideas of how far he or she desires to carry body building. If a man wants to have bulging weight-lifter's arms and shoulders, he simply concentrates more on certain of Dr. Salls' exercises. If a housewife seeks a more shapely midriff, a few weeks with several of the 6-second workouts usually will bring the desired results.

Now you — and your children, too — can have stronger, slimmer, healthier bodies without either the strain or boredom of old-fashioned exercises. Dr. Salls will send a full set of his instructions, complete with illustrations, to interested readers who use the coupon on this page. Remember! These exercises are different: they take you just 6 seconds each!

GEORGIA BEAUTY
Cecilia Upton was able to trim down her thighs in just 17 days with Dr. Salls' almost effortless minute-a-day exercises.

MORNING STRETCH
for Dr. Salls, former Alabama football star, and his family is limited to his ten 6-second exercises. Yet this remarkably easy new routine keeps them in better condition than the tedious, old-fashioned "daily dozen."

We Survived the Italian Dam Disaster

Robert and Betty De Lazzero

In seconds, a great surge of water swept away 2,000 persons; now an American tells how he and his wife faced those moments of horror

By ROBERT W. DE LAZZERO as told to Jack Ryan

ILLUSTRATION BY HERB MOTT

MY COUSIN Bettina Bratti looked at the towering Vaiont dam and told my wife and me:

"Yes, it is beautiful. All Italians are proud of it." Then, as Betty and I photographed the highest dam in the world, Bettina added quietly: "But in our village, we often think: what if it should break? We would all be swept away."

It never occurred to Betty and me at the time, but the people of my family's village, Longarone, seldom mentioned the Vaiont dam without some foreboding. It stood 1¼ miles above them, a gently curved mass of concrete 900 feet high and holding back thousands of tons of water.

Betty and I live in Scarsdale, N. Y., and on our first trip to Europe, the high point naturally was visiting the valley where my father had been born. We had a crowded itinerary, though, and had planned to leave that day, last Oct. 9.

"Please stay another night anyway," my cousin had pleaded. "Mother enjoys it so, and she is afraid she will never see you again." My aunt, or more correctly, my grandaunt, was Elizabeth Bratti. She was 87, and she knew death was near. She had reared my father as a boy, and she looked upon me almost as she would a grandchild. Reluctantly, we agreed to stay another night in the shadow of the dam.

From our hotel, the Albergo Marina, 150 age-worn steps led up the mountainside to the four-story building where my father had been born and now the home of my aunt and two cousins. I complained about those steps as Betty and I walked to the Bratti home about 8 in the evening. We had no idea each step upward was taking us farther from disaster.

The Brattis served us a sumptuous Italian dinner, and in the warmth of the family Betty and I forgot our impatience to be on our way. At 10, though, we decided to return to the hotel; tomorrow we would be busy traveling. But again my cousin persisted.

"Stay, stay," cousin Antonietta said. "We have saved a bottle of wine for good-byes. Very special vintage." I looked at Betty resignedly, and we stayed a few minutes more on the mountainside.

The five of us sat in the kitchen which faced the outside wall of the old building. As we sipped the wine, my aunt said, "Roberto, I pray only that God will let me live until June, when your father comes here. I want to see him once more before I die." I leaned forward to assure her she would live to see him often.

AS I DID, I thought I heard the church bells tolling insistently. And then I became aware of total silence; not just aware that we had stopped talking but aware of a vacuumlike stillness in which all sound had been swallowed—a silence felt as well as heard, the heavy silence that precedes a summer storm. Somebody whispered, "Listen."

Outside, a whirring sound began. It came from a distance at first and seemed muted. Then swiftly it became a rush of air like the blast from a jet engine. It roared through the streets in screaming fury.

We all rose. Betty went to the window and peered into the darkness. My aunt stood petrified beside her chair. My cousins ran through the dining room to the front door, and I followed, thinking some terrible storm was ripping the village. Bettina opened the door. Before I could look out, however, she slammed it shut and turned to me.

"La diga! La diga! Siamo tutti morti! The dam! The dam! We are all dead!"

In the four months since that moment, I have re-enacted the scene from the eerie ringing of the bells until the end. It never took more than 12 seconds. But those seconds hurtled death down the valley for some 2,000 persons.

The lights flared and then went out. I felt an immense burst of air strike me and heard crashing sounds. A wall of water overwhelmed me. It came with rushing swiftness and a weight that hurtled me against the wall. I tried to swim against it, but I couldn't escape.

I remembered the dam and the gorgeful of water it had blocked. Now, I thought, this water is loose. Nobody could fight such a rampage. I would be drowned or be crushed, so beneath the turbulent water I resigned myself to death.

It would be a day before I would learn what really had happened to the Vaiont dam and the doomed valley below it. Rain during the previous days had eroded the north face of Mount Toc, just above the dam. At 10:43 p.m., tons of earth tumbled into Vaiont's reservoir. This displaced tons of water which surged over the top of the dam and raced like a tidal wave, perhaps 1,000 feet high, over the unsuspecting villages below. From the main torrent, which obliterated almost all life on the valley floor, huge waves of water lashed at the surrounding mountainsides, sparing some families, wiping out others.

In the midst of the flood, I flailed out against the undertow, and my hand struck a ledge. I grasped it to steady myself and pulled upward. Suddenly I could breathe. I thought I had found an air pocket, but I still had little hope. Thinking the dam had burst, I could only imagine an endless sweep of water.

Instead, the water began to ebb around me. I could feel it drain away with a sucking sound. It was gone as quickly as it had come.

NO SOUND, no light. I reached out and felt mud, water, broken pottery, fragments of wood. "Betty! Betty!" I called. Even the sounds of receding water faded away. "Oh, my God," I cried, "I've lost Betty. She's dead."

"Roberto! Is that you?" The voice was my cousin's, Antonietta. I called out again, and this time Bettina answered from the darkness. The two began to scream: "We are going to die!"

"Be quiet!" I yelled back. "How can Betty hear me with you two!" I couldn't seem to move, so I felt around and touched somebody's head. It was Antonietta; her body was buried in silt-covered debris, and I scraped away some so she could breathe easier. Then I shouted over and over for Betty, pausing each time to listen. Not a sound.

Then I heard Betty's voice. It was faint, but it was the most beautiful sound I had ever heard. My right leg was twisted outward at a 90-degree angle, so I took the knee between my hands and jerked it back into joint. I must have fainted then because the next thing I knew I was lying in mud and telling myself: "Get up. You're the only one who can help Betty."

My leg wouldn't hold me so I crawled toward the pitiful gasps coming from my wife. "I'm in the dining room," she said. "I can't breathe." Actually, she had been swept into the kitchen, and her voice guided me to her. She was totally buried under rubble, and I began frantically pushing it away.

I thought I saw a light, just a flicker. I turned and saw two frightened old ladies on the stairs holding candles. They lived on the fourth floor, and the wave had ripped away the wall of their apartment and tumbled them out of bed. I told them to hold the candles high so I could see what encased Betty.

A large slab of limestone was crushing her chest. I laid beside the slab, wrapped my arms around it, and began rocking it back and forth with all my 220 pounds. When I got enough momentum, I swung it off Betty and on top of me. But when I tried to roll it off my chest, I didn't have enough strength left. I was trapped, and Betty, now silent again, was still lost in rubble.

I lay helpless, wondering what would happen next. Then I heard voices. "Anyone there?" Flashlights probed the darkness, and we yelled for help. Three men from the next village had come to investigate. One looked at me, wrapped around the limestone block, and said, "Are you crazy?" He freed me, and they tried to carry me out.

"No! No!" I yelled. "I won't go without my wife!"

They glanced at each other with puzzled looks. "Isn't that your wife?" One pointed to a form about two feet from where Betty was hidden. "She is dead, you know." The flashlight picked out a crumpled body. It was my aunt.

They carried me and my stunned cousins outside. I kept protesting that my wife was not dead, but they obviously thought I was hysterical.

At that time none of us knew what actually had happened. I suppose we all feared still another deluge. And none of us knew, either, that few were left alive in the village. Of the 2,300 villagers, only a couple of hundred survived, many seemingly by miracles. Near us, for example, a man was found still lying across the mattress on which he had been sleeping. Somehow, he had been carried almost a mile against the raging current and deposited on the mountainside. His family had been wiped out.

Among the dead were 20 of my relatives. Even the old graveyard, which recorded past generations of Longarone life, was swept down the Piave River with the living. Our hotel vanished; nothing was at the site but a sandy mud beach.

Only utility poles, a few houses, and the church steeple remained in the wake of the flood.

The Italians kept up their chatter until I grabbed the leader. "Shut up," I screamed. "If you'd all shut up. I'll prove my wife is in there. I won't leave until I do!"

The leader gestured the others to silence, but I could sense they were just trying to mollify a crazy American. I shouted into the blackness. "Betty! Please, Betty, say something to me."

I could hear the Italians stirring restlessly behind me. I prayed that Betty would be conscious for a moment and would have enough strength to whisper at least. Then we all heard her: "Please, Bob, help me."

Before I could move, the Italians rushed past me and into the apartment. I heard a sharp cry. "Bob, they're stepping on me. Help!" In Italian, I shouted where Betty was and told them how she was buried. They freed her quickly and carried her outside.

I knew she was badly hurt. Blood poured from a gaping scalp wound. Her face and legs were deeply lacerated. We would learn later that four of her ribs were broken, one puncturing her lungs. In the following weeks, she would have pneumonia four times.

I didn't realize how seriously injured I was. My concern was Betty. She was conscious but in shock as the Italians put her in a truck. I insisted on going with her, but they held me back. They said others more seriously injured must be rushed to the hospital before me.

Robert De Lazzero and wife were in room on first floor (below chimney, far left) when edge of tidal wave ripped this building. The 150 steps (center of photo) lead to Longarone which, with most of its citizens, was swept away by the flood.

MORE TRUCKS arrived, but I wouldn't get in one until I was sure it was going to Ospedale Pieve di Cadore, the hospital where Betty had been taken. When there, I badgered doctors to let me stay as close to Betty's ward as possible. They objected until I cornered one to explain my stubbornness. "She's a total stranger here. She can't even understand you. If she is going to die, I want to be with her."

The doctor nodded understandingly. "I will tell you frankly," he said, "I do not think she will last the day. You should sleep. I will give you something."

I refused. I would wait for some word before sleeping. If Betty should become frightened, somebody should be near to reassure her.

The flood occurred on a Wednesday night, and all Thursday I waited. On Friday night I saw the doctor approaching and, although I was dazed from lack of sleep, I knew the waiting was over, one way or the other.

"You can go to sleep now," he said. "She is all right." He paused before adding: "Man, woman, or child, I've never seen anybody more tough or courageous."

I already knew that, so I said: "Okay, I'll sleep."

I learned that one of my ribs and my right leg were fractured and all ligaments below the right knee torn. Soon a blood clot loosened and struck at my lungs, and doctors felt I was close to death.

It became Betty's turn then to be at my side in hospitals in Italy and Germany, during an emergency flight across the Atlantic, and through a dangerous period in a New York hospital.

And, of course, she never failed.

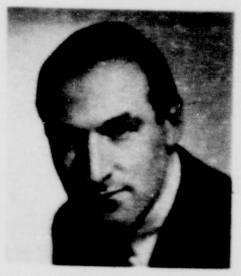
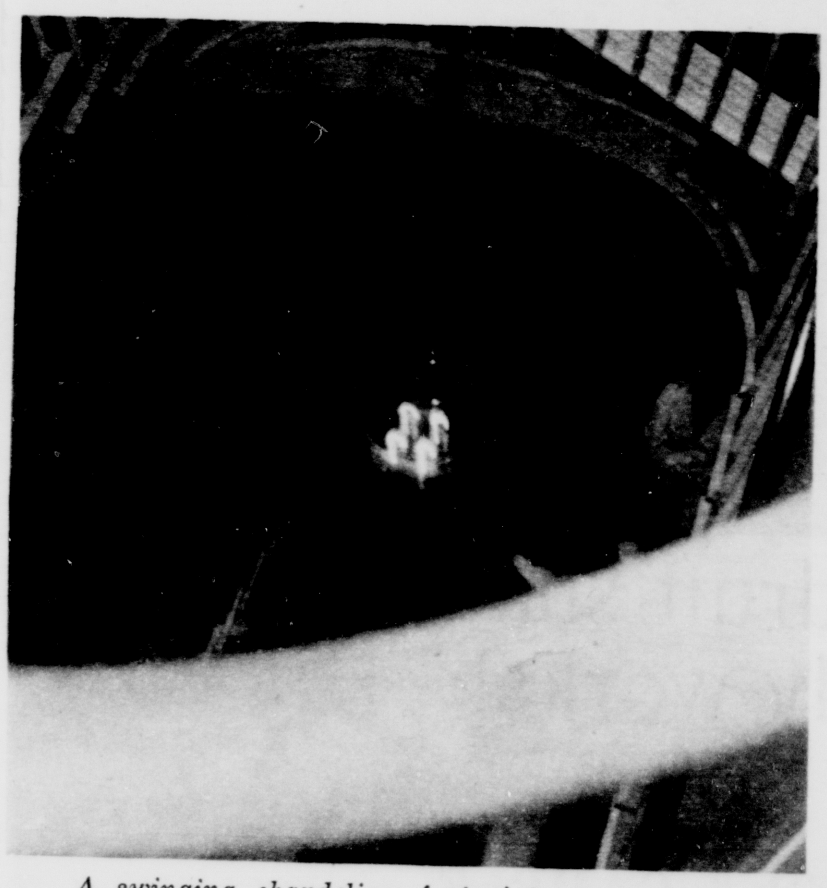
Why I Believe in GHOSTS



By HANS HOLZER
Author of "Ghost Hunter"



A swinging chandelier, footprints on a dusty floor are some of the ghostly happenings that people have observed in the famous Octagon building in Washington.

Though skeptics scoff, this author has investigated many reports of apparitions and insists such phenomena are not make-believe

SEEING IS BELIEVING—and that goes as much for ghosts as it does for anything else.

One night in 1955, my head slid off my pillow while I was asleep and dangled down from the bed. Since I suffer from low blood pressure, such a position, if sustained for a while, would have led to several days of illness for me.

Suddenly I awoke to find a gentle hand pushing my head back onto the pillow. The room was fairly well lit by moonlight pouring in through the wide windows of my 19th-floor penthouse. Looking up, I saw next to my bed the white-gowned figure of my late mother!

As soon as I was fully awake, she vanished into thin air. A dream? Certainly not. Dreams don't cast shadows, and my mother did just that. She came when there was need for her to come, and I am grateful for it.

Ghosts, of course, are not always seen; their unseen presence can be felt as well. Last summer, my wife and I visited the old Sawtelle homestead atop 1,700-foot Mount Riga in Connecticut. It was built in 1754 by a family named Thurston, and the present owners, while not particularly friendly to the idea of having ghosts, have admitted to such goings-on as footsteps, doors opening by themselves, and the sound of a loom going at full speed.

Mrs. Ethel Johnson Meyers, a vocal teacher who has served as my trance medium many times (I need such help since I am not overly psychic myself), had heard of this house and brought my wife and me out to inspect it. I was standing in the middle of the main room when I felt myself being strongly tugged at the elbow. I turned around—but there was no one close enough to have touched me.

I TOLD THE OWNER my story. He nodded and said, "Oh, yes, that would be Grandma Thurston; she does this to all strangers. Wants attention, I suppose." Evidently, the 18th-century lady still thinks she owns the house. A tray of drinks was knocked out of the hands of the man who brought them—with no natural cause for it. But then, Grandma Thurston never did approve of drinking. Spirit and spirits don't always mix.

People often ask me: "You don't actually believe in ghosts, do you, Mr. Holzer? Not really?"

My answer is: yes, really. I didn't believe in ghosts, either, until some years ago when I found out firsthand that there was more to psychic phenomena than hearsay and wholesale fraud.

When my skeptical questioners smile condescendingly as if to indicate, "poor, deluded nut," I go on to tell them that I am a graduate journalist, archeologist, and parapsychologist who has studied at two universities, Columbia and Vienna. And I explain that my writing activities aren't confined to the nether world, that some 300 magazine and newspaper articles bear my signature, and several plays and musicals of my authorship have been produced in New York theaters. If I'm a nut, friends, I'm at least an all-around nut, hardly a fanatic on ghosts.

Why do I believe in ghosts? For the same reason most people who aren't fanatics believe there is an Australia. They haven't actually been there. they haven't seen it—but reliable witnesses have, and they accept their testimony. I make sure my witnesses are not publicity seekers or unstable.

Ghosts aren't trained seals that perform on command. What we parapsychologists call "spontaneous phenomena" do not occur except when the actual emotional situation exists. A ghost, to me, is generally the surviving personality of a human being who died under emotional stress and somehow keeps reliving the final moments at the very spot of this traumatic experience.

My new book, Ghost Hunter, and my work in general have shown that the throwing or moving of objects, the doorbell ringings, the apparitions themselves all serve the same purpose: to let us know these shades are still people and need help. As a ghost hunter, I not only investigate the facts but actively help the creatures of the nether world escape into the "happier hunting grounds."

ALTHOUGH this may seem like witchcraft, just try to imagine how people of 150 years ago would have reacted to tv and radio images and voices. Parapsychology will be an ordinary science within our lifetime. Even now, the U. S. government is experimenting with telepathy as part of the astronaut program, and Russia has established chairs at two leading universities to delve into the world of mental phenomena.

The next best thing to seeing or hearing a ghost yourself is talking to those who have. When there are many such witnesses, the ghost hunter's heart jumps with ectoplastic joy. An old building in Washington called the Octagon now houses the American Institute of Architects. But it was built by a Colonel Tayloe primarily as a mansion for his daughter. She disgraced him, however, by bringing home the wrong kind of husband. Father said "no," and daughter committed suicide by jumping from the third floor and landing on the floor of the great hallway in front of the staircase. For years people have observed ghostly happenings in the building.

The story I like best about the Octagon came from the lips of the still-disbelieving superintendent of the institute, Alric H. Clay. He was driving by the building one night when he noticed the lights inside were on. Having locked up just a few hours before, this upset him. On entering the building, he found all locks undisturbed. But the carpet edge was flipped back on the very spot where the girl had landed in death!

CLAY WENT upstairs, inspected all the floors, turned the carpet back, and then proceeded to the basement where the light switches are. At that moment he heard someone walking on the main floor above his head. He became so upset he almost electrocuted himself at the switch.

Last February, Clay closed up after a late party, secure in the knowledge that he alone had a passkey to the building. He had inspected the house to make sure everybody had left. But Clay's sleep was disturbed at 3 a.m. when the police reported all lights ablaze in the building and the doors wide open. Everything was closed up again in the presence of the police officers, but at 7 a.m. the lights were on again, the doors wide open. But there were no fingerprints.

I expect to be in Washington soon to lay to rest this particular ghost—and return the superintendent to a life of comparative quiet!

Riddle

Why does Uncle Sam wear red-white-and-blue suspenders?

Answer: To hold up his pants.

Find the Buttons By Maude E. Hallmer

Here's a way to play magician and fool your friends. Put a few buttons in a small matchbox and attach it to your left arm with elastic bands. Pull your sleeve down over it. Then place three empty matchboxes on a table, and you are ready.

Shake two of the empty boxes with your right hand and the third one with your left. The hidden button box will rattle in your sleeve. Move the boxes about on the table, then ask your friends which one has the buttons. They will point to the one you shook with your left hand. Pick it up and shake it in your right hand to show that it is empty.

Then pick up another box and shake it with your left hand. The buttons will rattle.

You'll find that you have mystified your friends since the buttons will seem to have changed boxes before their eyes!

Prize-Winning Recipes · Tested by Culinary Arts Institute

THIS COOKBOOK was started on the premise that Mrs. America, whoever she is and wherever she lives, is a cook of talent who knows and loves good cooking.

A contest was born!

When you have a continent for a cupboard and the peoples of the world for your family, contest results are sure to be exciting. Certainly many of the entries were remarkable. When an American homemaker submits a recipe for "Pillow-shi-key" it takes a bit of research to discover that this is really European piroshki, which has undergone a lingual change in the "r"-less vocabulary of the Japanese cook of an American family living in the Far East.

Experts have asserted that there is no American cuisine. Taking this in its narrowest sense, the charge may be true. And yet if our cooking cannot be characterized in a single word, it can be described. We cook in the traditions of the British, French, and Germans, of Italians, Scandinavians, Bohemians, Greeks, and many other peoples. By mid-twentieth century it is clear that perhaps, after all, there is a word for American cooking—cosmopolitan. American cooking belongs to the world!

Every recipe in this cookbook has been kitchen-tested by the home economists of the CULINARY ARTS INSTITUTE. More than a third of the recipes are prize winners. The others were created and developed by the Institute and adapted for this book to make it a truly basic, well-rounded cookbook, reflecting the cosmopolitan traditions of American cooking.

In graceful assembly across this cover are four generations of cooking accessories brought together for a family portrait. The majority are oldsters, dating back to the pioneering days. In the others one may discern the stamp of their American stock—a sturdy beauty—a happy union of fine form and function.

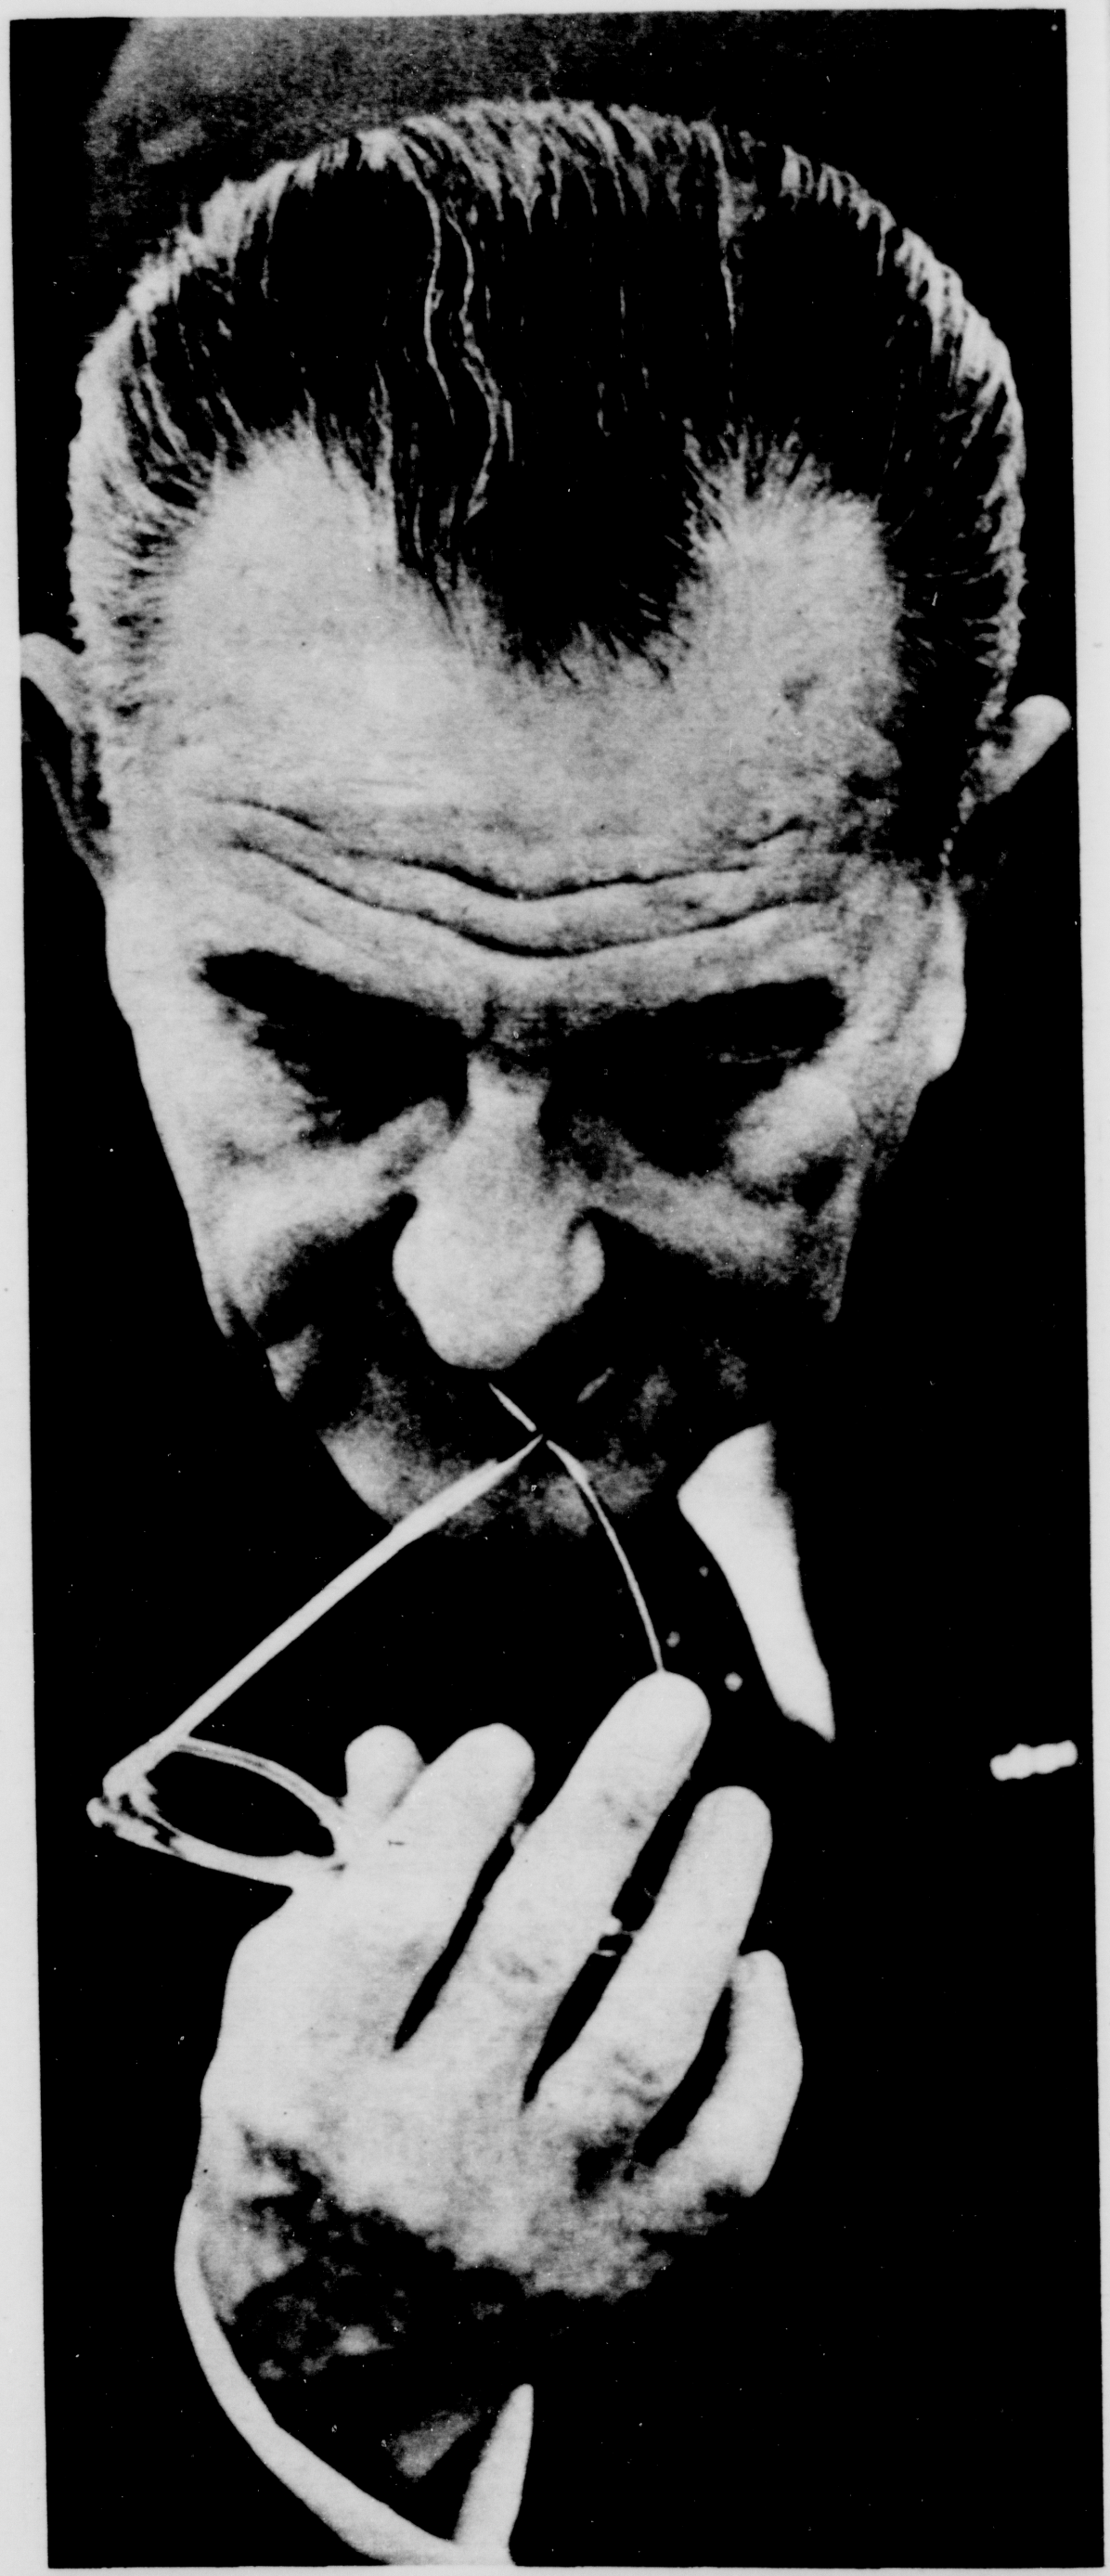
LBJ Puts His Brand on the Presidency



CLOSING THE DOOR of his den, Lyndon B. Johnson was alone for the first time in that long, tragic day of Nov. 22, 1963.

He had awakened that morning as Vice President of the United States; now he was the President.

As he looked slowly around the room, his eyes fastened on a photograph of the late Sam Rayburn, his long-time friend and mentor. And, almost unconsciously, he found himself saluting the photograph with: "Well, Mr. Speaker, I wish you were here tonight."

The memories of that day in Dallas were still singeing his mind. There had been the first shot fired by President Kennedy's assassin—and then he had felt a man's body hurtle down upon him. It was his bodyguard, Rufus Youngblood, protecting him from other bullets that might be meant for him.

There had been the waiting in the Dallas hospital while surgeons tried to save President Kennedy's life. The Johnsons were in a room into which the Secret Service had ushered them. "I want to go to Mrs. Kennedy," Mrs. Johnson said. Finding her outside the emergency room, Lady Bird held out her arms to Jacqueline.

Then, when they knew that President Kennedy was dead, came a time for mourning—but also a time for action. By telephone, Judge Sarah T. Hughes, an old friend of the Johnson family, was summoned to Air Force 1, the Presidential jet transport parked at Love Field, Dallas. She was asked to administer the oath of office to the new President.

Judge Hughes didn't have a copy of the Presidential oath, but she was sure she remembered the substance of it. Just before the swearing-in ceremony on the plane, however, someone handed her a scrap of paper on which the oath had been written.

Standing beside Mr. Johnson as he took his oath was Jacqueline Kennedy, dry eyed and composed even though she was still wearing the dress stained with her husband's blood. She insisted she wanted to be with Mr. Johnson at that moment. When the ceremony was over, the new President kissed Lady Bird. Then he placed an arm around Mrs. Kennedy and kissed her gently.

Many of the 27 persons who witnessed the ceremony pressed forward to shake the President's hand. But he backed away, saying: "Now let's get this plane back to Washington."

DURING the 2-hour-and-21-minute flight, Johnson not only prepared himself for the work ahead but also wrestled with overpowering human emotions. Calling Mrs. Rose Kennedy, the late President's mother, was such a moment. The poor connection and the deafening static symbolized the occasion. Mrs. Kennedy answered, her voice low but controlled.

"I wish to God there were something I could do for you," President Johnson said. Then he handed the telephone to his wife.

"Oh, Mrs. Kennedy," Lady Bird said, "we feel as if the heart had been cut out of us. But we must remember how fortunate our nation was to have had your son as long as we did."

"Thank you, Lady Bird," the grieving mother replied.

A new Lyndon Johnson? No, say close associates, it's the old Lyndon Johnson returned—a born leader who's back in the saddle again

By FLORA RHETA SCHREIBER

Back in Washington, President Johnson went to his old office in the Executive Office Building and worked until almost midnight, then went home to the Elms, his hillside residence in the Spring Valley section. In his den, at midnight, he completed his first day as President.

On a sunny but crisply cool Saturday, the new First Family moved into the White House, their fourth Washington residence. When Mr. Johnson was a young Congressman, they lived in a small Washington apartment. In 1941, they bought the house they were living in when daughters Lynda Bird and Lucy Baines were born and where they remained until after he became Vice President. Mrs. Johnson always called it "our John Q. Citizen house" because she felt that there were innumerable ones like it in every part of the land.

During the Vice Presidency came the new lavishness of the Elms, a 12-room French château with spacious grounds, glittering chandeliers, interesting murals, and an ornate, gilded gate.

THE JOHNSONS plan no great changes in the White House. From the Elms, they brought books, records, paintings, and only some four to five rooms of furniture. "Everything has been done so beautifully (by Mrs. Kennedy)," says Elizabeth Carpenter, press secretary to Mrs. Johnson, "that very little will be changed, at least for the time being."

Jacqueline Kennedy remains very much in the thoughts of the White House's new occupants. During his first week there, the new President telephoned her every night to say, "I just want you to know that Mrs. Johnson and I are thinking of you."

Coming to the White House, Mrs. Johnson, who has a gift for the poetic phrase, said: "I will try to be balm, sustainer, and sometimes critic of my husband. I will try to have my children look at this job with all the reverence it is due, to get from it the knowledge their unique vantage point gives them, and to retain the lightheartedness to which every teenager is entitled.

"For my own self, my role must emerge in deeds, not words."

ON THE DAY the Johnsons moved to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, the President said, "I feel as if I'd already been here a year." It might easily have seemed a year. Having swiftly taken hold of the reins of government, he could count time in activity instead of by the calendar.

Two hours after his predecessor's funeral, he was establishing international rapport at his first reception. It was the greatest assemblage of foreign dignitaries Washington had ever seen.

Soon afterward, in a resounding speech to Congress, he pledged to continue President Kennedy's policies. Before leaving the rostrum, he looked up at Lady Bird in the family gallery, and she gave him the nod of assurance that had signified her approval of his speeches ever since the days of his first campaigns.

Today, official Washington talks of a new and mellower Lyndon Johnson. But, as Booth Mooney, the President's close friend, told me: "It is not a new Lyndon Johnson we're seeing but an old one who has come back. He had his heyday as Senate Majority Leader and acts now as he acted then."

There is talk, too, about changes in the tone of the White House. Under Mrs. Johnson's distinctive influence, however, there will be a continuation of the cultural emphasis established by the Kennedys. Mrs. Johnson, like her predecessor, has a deep love of the arts. She is at home with campfire ballads—but she is equally at home with Verdi operas.

Although the new President brings continuity on the policy level, he is establishing an informal and impromptu style uniquely his own. President Kennedy's news conferences were held in the large State Department Auditorium and were, for the most part, televised. President Johnson, however, prefers to call a small group of reporters around his desk for a news conference. In doing this, he is returning to the pattern set by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

JOHNSON also is displaying a homey, direct approach that is new. At his ranch on the Pedernales River in the beautiful hill country of Central Texas, he entertains world leaders in the atmosphere which, aside from Congress, best reflects his own personality. When he took 50 newspapermen around the ranch recently, he was behaving in typical Johnson manner. He really wanted to show his guests from the East what Western ranch life is like.

There in Central Texas, where he spent his boyhood, the folks are hearty and unpretentious. "They still think of Daddy as Sam Johnson's boy," Lynda Bird once told me.

During the President's Christmas week homecoming, the truth of her words were reaffirmed. The President asked a group of children, who had gathered in front of the ranch, if they knew who he was. Not a single one replied, "The President." All chorused, "You're Lyndon Johnson."

The Bible is a CATHOLIC Book

People differ radically in what they think about the Bible. Some seem to think it was handed down from Heaven written in English and bound in morocco. Many accept it as the inspired Word of God without knowing why they are justified in doing so. And others say that the Bible is full of contradictions and must be taken "with a grain of salt."

A proper understanding of the Scriptures can exert a tremendous influence for good in your personal life. You should, therefore, know where we get the Bible . . . what it means . . . why you can believe its every word.

Nowhere in the Bible text will you find a list of the 73 inspired books of which it is composed. This list was given to the world by the Catholic Church almost three full centuries after Christ's Crucifixion. Between the time of the Crucifixion and the time the Scriptures were gathered into a single Book, millions had received and accepted the teachings of Jesus . . . and had died without ever seeing the complete Bible.

Established by Jesus Christ Himself and rapidly spread among the nations of the world, the Catholic Church was carrying on Christ's work for the salvation of men some 60 years before the Apostle John wrote his books of the New Testament.

For more that a thousand years afterward, the Scriptures were preserved and circulated by Catholic monks and scholars who copied the sacred text by hand. And the Bible authorized by the Catholic Church was the first book produced by Gutenberg upon the invention of printing with movable type.

Yes, the Bible is truly a Catholic book. They were members of the Catholic Church who, under God's inspiration, wrote the New Testament in its entirety.

The Catholic Church treasured it and gave it to the world in its original and unaltered form. The infallible authority of the Church always has been the only sure guarantee of its inspiration.

There are obscure and difficult passages in the Bible, some of which may seem confusing. But with the complete revealed truth of God delivered to her from the beginning, the Catholic Church has faithfully unfolded the meaning of the written Word of God to past generations of mankind—and does so today.

Those familiar with the Bible or those reading it for the first time will find important questions concerning it answered in a booklet which we shall send you immediately. And nobody will call on you. Ask for Pamphlet No. FM-3.

Almond-Crunch Pineapple Pie boasts two toppings, pastry and glazed almonds.

Fruit-Full Desserts

Almond-Crunch Pineapple Pie

Pastry for a 2-crust 8-in. pie
2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 1-lb., 4½-oz. can crushed pineapple
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 tablespoon lime juice
1 tablespoon sugar
1½ teaspoons butter or margarine
¼ cup light corn sirup
1 teaspoon water
¾ cup sliced unblanched almonds

1. Line pie pan with pastry. Roll out remainder for top crust; prick pastry with a fork, fold, and set aside.

2. Mix 2 tablespoons sugar, cornstarch, and salt together in a saucepan, then stir in the undrained pineapple. Bring mixture to boiling over medium heat, stirring constantly. Boil until clear and thickened, 1 to 2 min. Stir in the 2 tablespoons butter or margarine and lime juice.

3. Turn filling into the pastry shell; cover with top crust. Seal and flute edges.

4. Bake at 425°F 20 min., or until pastry begins to brown.

5. Meanwhile, combine the 1 tablespoon sugar, 1½ teaspoons butter or margarine, corn sirup, and water in a small saucepan. Cook over low heat, stirring until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils.

6. Remove pie from oven. Sprinkle sliced almonds over top crust. Spoon hot glaze evenly over nuts. Return pie to oven; bake about 8 min. longer, or until topping is bubbly and lightly browned. Cool completely before cutting. One 8-in. pie

Peach Pudding-Cake

½ cup butter or margarine
1 pkg. instant vanilla pudding mix
2 cups white or yellow cake mix
1 egg
2 cups milk
1½ teaspoons almond extract
1 1-lb., 13-oz. can sliced peaches

1. Put the butter or margarine into a 13x9½x2-in. baking pan. Set pan in a 350°F oven and heat until butter is melted.

2. Meanwhile, blend the pudding mix and cake mix together in a large bowl. Add the egg, milk, and almond extract; beat with a rotary beater until smooth. Stir in the contents of the can of sliced peaches until thoroughly mixed.

3. Remove the pan from the oven and turn batter into the pan over melted butter. When the butter has risen to the top, distribute it over the batter.

4. Bake at 350°F about 45 min., or until top is golden brown.

5. Serve warm, topped with dollops of whipped cream sprinkled with ground nutmeg. About 8 servings

Cherry Torte

Torte
6 egg yolks (about ½ cup)
⅓ cup sugar
3 tablespoons lemon juice
6 egg whites (about 1 cup)
3 tablespoons sugar
1⅔ cups grated blanched almonds (about 3½ oz.)
¼ cup fine dry bread crumbs
2 1-lb., 1-oz. cans dark sweet cherries, drained, cut in halves, and drained thoroughly

Meringue
3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar

Topping
¼ cup blanched almonds, toasted and coarsely chopped
2 tablespoons sugar

1. For torte, combine the first three ingredients in a small bowl. Beat until thick and lemon colored; set aside.

2. Beat the egg whites until frothy. Add the 3 tablespoons sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until rounded peaks are formed (peaks turn over slightly when beater is slowly lifted upright).

3. Mix together the grated almonds and bread crumbs. Divide into four portions; set aside.

4. Gently spread egg yolk mixture over beaten egg whites. Spoon one portion of the almond-crumb mixture over egg mixture and gently fold with a few strokes until batter is only partially blended. Repeat with remainder of the almond-crumb mixture, folding in one portion at a time. Finally, fold just until blended; do not overmix the batter.

5. Turn batter into a 9-in. spring-form pan and spread evenly. Gently place cherries, cut side down, evenly over top.

6. Bake at 350°F about 40 min., or until a cake tester or wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean.

7. Set torte on cooling rack; cool in pan 15 min. Remove only the sides of the pan; cool torte completely.

8. For meringue, beat the egg whites until frothy. Add the sugar gradually, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until rounded peaks are formed when beater is lifted upright.

9. Transfer torte to a baking sheet. Completely cover sides and top of torte with the meringue. Mix the topping ingredients together and sprinkle evenly over the top of the meringue.

10. Bake at 350°F 10 to 15 min., or until meringue is delicately browned. Cool torte and transfer to a cake plate. To cut, dip knife blade into hot water; wipe blade after each cut. 12 to 16 servings

Apricot Chiffon Dessert

1 1-lb., 14-oz. can apricot halves, drained (reserve 1¼ cups sirup)
2 tablespoons apricot preserve or jam
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup chilled whipping cream, whipped
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
¼ teaspoon almond extract
1½ doz. vanilla wafers, crushed (½ cup)
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted

1. Force the apricots through a sieve or food mill. Stir in the apricot preserve or jam; set aside.

2. Mix the gelatin and sugar together in a saucepan. Stir in the lemon juice and reserved apricot sirup. Stir over low heat until gelatin and sugar are dissolved. Add to the sieved apricots, stirring until thoroughly blended.

3. Chill in refrigerator or over ice and water until mixture is slightly thickened; stir frequently.

4. Blend a mixture of the extracts into the whipped cream. Beat the gelatin mixture slightly; fold in whipped cream.

5. Combine the crushed vanilla wafers and melted butter or margarine; mix thoroughly. Spread about two-thirds of the crumbs on the bottom of an 8-in. square pan. Turn the apricot-whipped cream mixture into the pan. Top evenly with remaining crumbs. Chill until firm, about 4 hrs. 8 or 9 servings

Blueberry Ice Cream

2 12-oz. pkgs. frozen blueberries, drained
6 tablespoons sugar
⅛ teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
¾ cup cream
1 cup heavy cream

1. Wash, scald, and drain the cover, container, and dasher of an ice-cream freezer; chill thoroughly before using. Crushed ice and rock salt will be needed.

2. Combine blueberries and sugar in a saucepan. Set over low heat and crush berries slightly. Simmer 15 to 20 min., or until mixture is reddish purple in color and is sirupy. Force mixture through a food mill or sieve. Cool.

3. Blend blueberry purée, salt, and vanilla extract together. Stir in all the cream.

4. Fill chilled freezer container (not more than two-thirds full) with the blueberry-cream mixture. Cover tightly. Set in freezer tub. (For electric freezer, follow manufacturer's directions.) Fill tub with alternate layers of 8 parts crushed ice and 1 part rock salt.

Put lid on again and fill opening for dasher with cork. Repack freezer using 4 parts ice and 1 part rock salt. Cover with heavy paper or cloth. Allow to ripen 1 to 2 hrs. About 1½ qts. ice cream
